85TH CONGRESS BEGINS SESSION

Ike Challenges Red Troops to Leave Hungary

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower has challenged Russia to make a "significant" contribution to world peace by pulling its armed forces out of Hungary.

The President sent his challenge directly to Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin.

He did so in replying to a Nov. 17 letter from Bulganin which called for a five-power "Summit Conference" to end deadlocked negotiations on disarmament.

Mr. Eisenhower rejected the idea of a meeting on disarmament between himself & Bulganin and the prime ministers of Britain, France and India.

To Make Further Proposals

The President said continued negotiations within the United Nations "seem more likely to produce" results and that the United States will make further disarmament proposals there.

He also rebuked what he called Russia's attempt to dismiss as a "slanderous campaign" the "world's indignant reaction to the Soviet armed actions against the people of Hungary."

The President told Bulganin that if Russia wants to make "a significant step toward reduction" of world tensions it should bow to a United Nations resolution and pull its troops out of Hungary

He noted that Britain, France and Israel have abided by U.N. demands to end the Suez fighting and said Russia should follow their example.

Take Issue With Statement

Mr. Eisenhower also noted that Bulganin's Nov. 17 letter suggested that the strategic advantage in Western Europe now lies with Russia.

"This statement does not seem calculated to relieve international tensions," the President added. "Moreover, I am convinced in the light of my long association with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization that it is fully capable of carrying out its mission of collective defense" of Western Europe.

The White House made public the text of Mr. Eisenhower's reply to Bulganin Wednesday night.

Circulation at Public Library Shows Increase

The Monessen Public Library issued 56,602 books to its borrowers during 1956, an increase of 2,296 over the previous year, it was reported to the board of directors at a monthly meeting yesterday.

The increase was about evenly divided between juvenile and adult books, Mrs. Margaret Ashe, acting librarian, told the directors.

The Library's total circulation, in fact, is evenly divided between juvenile and adult titles with adult books having a slight edge last year--28,729 to 27,873.

Mrs. Ashe also reported that 599 new borrowers were registered during the year.

Harry P. Roberts, chairman of the membership committee, reported that contributions from organizations and the annual dues of individual members of the Library Association have so far about equalled last year's receipts from these sources.

Membership in the association is open to anyone, and dues are $5 per year. Members have the privilege of electing directors and otherwise participating in the operation of the Library.

The directors were informed officially that Mrs. James Johnston has been employed as a clerk in the Library, replacing Evelyn Jarouse, who resigned.

Civic Betterment Judging Group to Meet Tomorrow

A meeting of the Civic Betterment Awards Judging Committee will be held tomorrow beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the Monessen Chamber of Commerce at 335 Schoonmaker avenue, Paul T. Nicoden, co-chairman, announced today.

The committee will select the most outstanding organization in the men's and women's divisions on the basis of their contributions to community betterment during 1956.

The awards will be presented at the annual Chamber meeting scheduled for Jan. 23. A. R. Maxwell, president of Pittsburgh Steel Co., will speak.

The Lion's Club and Junior Women's Club were 1955 winners.

Fewer Bomb Hoaxes

NEW YORK (UP)— Authorities expected fewer bomb noaxes at schools today because students have been warned they will have to make up class time lost for bomb searches.

Fire Destroys Seat in Auto

The front seat of a car owned by John F. Nichols, of Cherry Lane, Monessen, was destroyed by fire in Pricedale about 8 o'clock this morning.

According to reports, Nichols had run out of gas and was on his way to a service station when the fire broke out.

A passerby saw smoke in the car, broke a window in the locked auto and pulled out the seat, firemen said. The cause was not determined.

The alarm was answered by Belle Vernon and North Belle Vernon firemen.

$15 Million in Road Jobs for Fayette County

Fayette County will realize a gigantic $15 million road building program this year, the State Highways Department announced

The State plans do not call for any of the work on county roads to be involved in the huge federal Interstate Highway System. The plans also point out that the new bridge for Brownsville is not scheduled for construction this year.

One of the projects in the program calls for Route 51 from Uniontown to Spillway Lake, 10 94 miles, to be widened to four lanes and partly relocated. This will be financed jointly by the state and federal aid primary system.

A study of the Route 51 approaches to Uniontown is also included in the plans.

County Orders 60 Voting Machines

Sixty voting machines costing a total of $85,620 have been ordered by the Westmoreland County Commissioners for three municipalities.

They will be used in Greensburg, Lower Burrell Township and Jeannette which last November voted to replace the paper ballot voting system.

The machines have been ordered from the Automatic Voting Machine Corp., of Jamestown, N. Y., the only manufacturer to submit a bid. The price per machine is $1,427, fob. The machines are of the manually operated type now in use in Monessen, Arnold and New Kensington.

USW Leaders Discuss 'Gains And Goals' at Regional Confab

NEW YORK (UP) — David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers of America, opened a two-day regional conference of union leaders today to discuss the union's "gains and goals."

The USW chief, who is up for re-election Feb. 12, presented statistics which he said were proof of the union's strength. He said the USW has obtained "greater wage increases than any other union" since 1953.

The conference, the first of a series of regional panel discussions to be held in the next four weeks, was attended by more than 400 delegates from New York, the New England states, and a section of Pennsylvania. They were local presidents, and members of the Wage-Policy Committee and official staff of the international union.

The USW reached a three-year agreement with the steel industry last August which will raise the weekly wages of steelworkers to an average of $105.75.

Family of Four

The contract's cost - of - living clause will add three cents an hour to the workers' pay checks this week.

McDonald said even the lowest paid steelworker now earns enough to support a family of four and will realize wage increases of $3,707 for the six-year period beginning in 1953.

"Gross hourly earnings in the steel industry have jumped from fourth place among American industries in 1952 to a tie for first place in 1956," McDonald said. "I submit to you that this is profound evidence of a strong union."

A panel on bargaining contracts in basic steel, iron ore, aluminum, non-ferrous and fabricating industries was held under the chairmanship of Arthur Goldberg, the union's general counsel. The conference will take up future plans and contract goals at Friday's session.

McDonald faces opposition from some segments in the union over a $2-a-month dues increase voted at the union's convention last September.

However, observers said the cost-of-living increase, which will more than cover the dues hike, has silenced some of the criticism. McDonald said the escalator increase will total $65 per year for the steel worker.

Bulger to Head County Schoolmen

A. J. McMullen, superintendent of Fayette County Schools, yesterday announced that Blandon Bulger, of Washington Township, is the new president of the County School Board.

Walter S. Rhodes, Springhill Township, was elected vice-president. Bulger succeeds Oliver C. Smith, Jr., of Masontown.

All members of Monessen Lodge No. 1761, Order Sons of Italy, are asked to be present at our hall, 529 4th St. Friday at 7:30 p. m. to pay last respects to our late Brother Kelly Colangelo. Edw. Furlo, Venerable

Members of Catholic Business & Professional Women meet 8 p. m. tonight at Perry Cozza Funeral Home to pay respects to A. F. Colangel father of member, Mrs. Virginia Dudas.

Attention VFW
Regular meeting tonight 8 p. m. Post Home. Free lunch.

Fire Whistle Is Repaired Here

If you were alarmed about Monessen's "coughing" fire alarm whistle about 3 o'clock yesterday, there was no real cause for alarm.

Why? Well, the cold weather froze the whistle and workmen were trying to get it unfrozen — just in case.

After a couple of short blasts — which sounded like the mooing of an oversized cow — the whistle was back in working order.

Grand Jury in County Convenes Monday, Jan. 14

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP)—The Westmoreland County grand jury which convenes Jan. 14, will consider 92 cases, including three of murder and one of involuntary manslaughter.

Two of the murder cases are against Charles Lutsovich, 32, of Sewickley Twp., who is charged with shooting his mother, Mrs. Mary Lutsovich, and his sister, Helen, in their home last Oct. 13. His father, Stanley Lutsovich, was wounded severely in the shooting.

The other murder case is against two brothers, William W. Welty, 21, and Nelson E. Welty, 24, both of Scottdale. They are charged with the fatal beating of Cleveland W. Baird, 72, of Scottdale, in East Huntingdon Twp. last Oct. 19.

The involuntary manslaughter charge is against George R. Hegedus, of Scottdale RD 1. It stems from a traffic accident on Route 30 near Greensburg last Oct. 13. John W. Kreiter, of Brooklyn, N.Y. was killed in the accident.

Thief Suspect Nabbed in Act

A 33-year-old Brownsville man was nabbed by two alert State Police troopers yesterday as he was attempting to loot a service station near Lincoln Hill, Washington County.

Stephen Herman was caught in the act about 3 a.m. by Troopers John Bachik and Edward Yesh. The police were on routine patrol when they noticed an auto parked at the station.

Investigating they found Herman rummaging around inside the station. He had in his possession change from a pinball machine and other miscellaneous items, police stated.

He is being held for questioning.

Has 81st Birthday

BERLIN (UP) — East German President Wilhelm Pieck celebrated his 81st birthday today.

Civil Rights, Middle East Policy Are Top Issues; To Hear Ike

President Will Outline Program

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower today prepared for personal delivery to Congress — probably Friday — his plea for standby authority to use troops if necessary to keep Russia out of the Middle East.

Advance indications were that the Democratic - controlled 85th Congress, convening today, would talk, inquire, and even complain at the need, but that in the end members would vote overwhelmingly to give the President what he wants.

Mr. Eisenhower, at a morning meeting with the National Security Council, was expected to iron out last-minute details of the plan. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told congressional leaders Wednesday night the exact language of the proposal still was unsettled.

Attaches Urgency To Request

But Dulles, meeting separately with key House and Senate members, left no doubt of what the President wants and the urgency he attaches to the request.

Dulles said the President would present a resolution authorizing him to spend up to $400 million to bolster the economies of friendly nations in the oil-rich Middle East and, in event it became necessary, to use U.S. military might to help them repel Communist aggression or infiltration.

Failure to approve the request, Dulles warned, would increase the danger of war. He said the decline of British and French influence in the area leaves a vacuum into which Russia might be tempted to move.

Idea Gains Support

Democratic leaders were swinging cautiously to support of the idea. They warned that full hearings will be needed to explore it. They promised to discuss whether fumbling by the Republican administration helped produce the crisis that makes the new "Eisenhower Doctrine" necessary.

In private, however, Democrats and Republicans alike were taking the view that in the end Congress has no alternative but to approve the request substantially in the form proposed by the President.

Mr. Eisenhower's request to appear before a joint session of Congress immediately after its opening pointed up the gravity with which he views the issue. He previously had scheduled an appearance next Thursday to deliver his State of the Union Message. Normally, this is the President's first address to Congress.

VOTES WITH PARTY — Sen. Frank J. Lausche (D-O) voted with his party today in the Senate's first organization test of the new Congress. The vote appeared to assure Democratic control of the Senate. Lausche had hinted last summer that he might vote with the Republicans.

Democrats in Full Control

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Democratic controlled 85th Congress convened today to wrestle with civil rights and U.S. policy in the Middle East.

These were the top priority issues as the Senate and House met at noon EST to start a session in which they will act on proposals of President Eisenhower's second Republican administration.

The opening of the new Congress' first session found some Senate Democrats nervous about the intentions of Sen.-elect Frank J. Lausche of Ohio. Lausche was elected as a Democrat but refused in advance to say whether he would vote with his party or with the Republicans on organization of the Senate.

There were reports that Sen.-elect Jacob K. Javits (R-NY) might take his seat today instead of next week, as he originally planned. If that is so and if Lausche throws in with the President's party, the voting division between the two parties will be 48-48 with Republican Vice President Richard M. Nixon breaking the tie.

In advance of today's session Senate Democrats picked veteran Sen. Carl Hayden (Ariz), new "dean" of the Senate in seniority, for president pro tempore to succeed retiring Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga).

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex) was reelected and Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont) was elected whip to succeed defeated Sen. Earl C. Clements (D-KY).

Other nominations by the Democrats included Felton M. (Skeeter) Johnston for secretary of the Senate, Joseph C. Duke for sergeant-at-arms, and Robert G. Baker for secretary for the majority. All are incumbents.

Senate Republicans elected Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (Mass) chairman of their conference, which is made up of all GOP senators. He succeeds Sen. Eugene D. Millikin (Colo) who did not run for reelection.

Dirksen Succeeds Saltonstall

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill) was selected to succeed Saltonstall as Senate GOP whip. The whip will act as assistant to Senate GOP Leader William F. Knowland (Calif).

Although the voters reelected Mr. Eisenhower by a landslide last November, they returned Democratic majorities to the House and Senate.

Mr. Eisenhower will go before a joint session of Congress Friday or early next week to ask for a congressional blessing of the administration's new Middle Eastern policy. He wants Congress to authorize $400 million in economic aid for that area and the use of U.S. troops, if necessary, to deter Russian aggression there.

Indications were that Congress

Another Mine Fire Reported Near Lookout

A subsurface mine fire has been discovered about 300 feet west of the intersection of Lookout avenue and Sycamore street, John Kotch, III, City engineer, revealed today in a periodical report on the Monessen mine fire project.

Kotch and an inspector from the State Bureau of Mines visited the area and reported that a fire is burning in the coal seams underlying this section of land.

The report stated this may be a new outbreak or an extension of the fire in which the federal government cooperated with the City in attempting to bring under control last year. The present fire is approximately 800 feet north of the original Southwest Monessen mine fire project.

Although described as a "small project," it will be necessary for the City to "expend money and have certain work performed in attempting to halt the progress of this new fire," Kotch said.

He stated plans call for excavating a ravine and then refilling it with non - combustible material, such as slag or clay, to prevent the fire from getting air and spreading.

The nearest home is 400 feet from the subsurface fire, he declared.

False Alarm at Housing Project

Donora firemen answered a false alarm shortly after nine o'clock this morning at the home of George Casson, of 69 Allen plan.

A neighbor called firemen when she saw smoke coming from outside the Carson home. The smoke resulted when Casson began melting ice from around some pipes.

47 Traffic Deaths In Fayette County

Forty-seven persons were killed in traffic accidents in Fayette County during 1956, Coroner Dr W. Ralston McGee reported today. This is an increase of 11 over last year.

Violent deaths numbered 26 There were 25 suicides and one murder.

The coroner's office said a total of 423 deaths were investigated.

Clement Attlee Will Speak to District Rotarians on Jan. 24

Former prime minister of Great Britain, Earl Attlee—better known in the United States as Clement Attlee—will address the Rotarians of District 261 at Twin Coaches on January 24, Thomas Malpass, Jr., of Belle Vernon, district governor, announced today.

It will be one of the few public speaking addresses the veteran leader of the British Labor Party will make during his visit to America this month. The present tour marks his first visit to the United States since 1952.

A capacity crowd of Rotarians, their wives and guests from Western Pennsylvania is expected to hear the famed statesman.

Prime minister of Great Britain during the post-war years, succeeding Sir Winston Churchill, he was elevated to the peerage upon his resignation from the House of Commons in 1955. Queen Elizabeth conferred upon him an earldom in recognition of his long and loyal service to his country. He took his seat in the House of Lords in 1956.

Clement Attlee

He was the leader of the Labor Party from 1935 to 1955. Under his premiership, from 1945 to 1951, the Labor Government inaugurated a revolution in the social and economic fabric of Britain and changed the face of the commonwealth.

It was his government which nationalized the basic industries; introduced the National Health Service; allowed India, Burma and Ceylon to determine their own future; challenged the Russian menace; joined in defeating the Berlin blockade; introduced conscription for the first time in peace and took the country into the Korean war under the United Nations.

He was born 74 years ago today in a London suburb. His father was a descendant of a prosperous milling family. Following prep school, he went to University College, Oxford, where he took honors in modern history. After leaving Oxford, he passed his bar examination and entered a law firm whose

Light Sentences Given Three in Vote Fraud

PITTSBURGH (UP) — A one-time racketeer and two former New Kensington elections officials who pleaded guilty to federal vote fraud charges drew more lenient sentences today than those originally imposed when they were convicted two years ago

Federal Judge Joseph P. Willson handed ailing Frank (Frinkie) Phillips a former rackets figure, a federal prison term of one year and a day plus a $500 fine.

Mike F. Sicilia, a judge of elections in New Kensington's First Ward when the alleged frauds occurred in November, 1952, was given a six months term.

John C. Fontana, former clerk for the New Kensington board, was sentenced to six months, but Judge Willson agreed to suspend sentence on condition he pay $1500 fine within two days.

Convicted with four other New Kensington defendants on charges of conspiring to stuff ballot boxes in the 1952 presidential election, Phillips, Sicilia and Fontana appealed and were granted new trials by the U.S. Circuit Court in Philadelphia But the three men decided to plead guilty to the charges rather than undergo the rigors of another trial in the complicated case.

Phillips who is suffering from several types of circulatory ailments, diabetes, and stomach trouble, originally was sentenced to three years in prison and fined $5,000. Judge Willson previously had given Sicilia a similar penalty and Fontana a two-year term and a $2,500 fine.

U.S Atty. D. Malcom Anderson, describing Phillips as a "rogue most of his life" and a "racketeer" said

Bus Segregation Laws Called Unconstitutional

Federal Judge In Miami Rules In Test Case

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UP) — A federal judge in Miami today ruled bus segregation laws of the city of Miami and the state of Florida unconstitutional.

Judge Emmett C. Choate ruled in effect that the U.S. Supreme Court had decided the question in holding that segregation on buses in Montgomery, Ala., was unconstitutional.

Judge Choate's ruling was given in a hearing of four Negro women who were arrested for sitting in the white section of a Miami city bus. But the ruling could have state - wide implications, possibly affecting the situation in Tallahassee, where a cross - burning Wednesday night marked the latest violence against the drive by Negroes to end racial segregation on buses.

Bus service was at a standstill again today in this city of 40,000 for fear of more incidents.

In the Federal Court hearing in Miami, Judge Choate caught everyone by surprise, even the opposing attorneys, by abruptly ending the proceedings 15 minutes after the hearing began.

"There is no use taking up a lot of time talking about something already decided," Judge Choate said. "If this merely is a suit to determine the validity of segregation in buses, I think that has already been decided (in the Montgomery case)."

Police said they turned up no clues in investigation of the burning of a four-foot, kerosene-soaked cross in front of the Rev. C. K. Steele's Baptist Church.

Steele, head of the Negro Inter-Civic Council which spearheaded the drive to gain a right for members of his race to sit where they please on buses, was holding a rally at another church at the time.

The Tallahassee transit system remained idle by orders of Gov. Leroy Collins because of his fear that further violence might follow a shooting and rock-throwing outbreak which damaged a Negro store and four Negro homes two days ago. He ordered it halted Tuesday.

The South's fifth attempt to integrate city buses meanwhile got underway at Tuscaloosa, Ala., with the formation of an organization to begin a drive for integration "through due process of law."

The Rev. W. B. Smeeley said his Tuscaloosa County Fellowship Assn. formed by 400 Negroes Wednesday night is patterned after the Montgomery, Ala., Improvement Assn., which obtained court-enforced integration of Montgomery buses.

City officials in Birmingham, Ala., the other bus integration hot-spot, today formally requested a postponement of trials for 21 Negroes arrested last week for violating a local segregation law.

Attorneys for the Negro defendants approved of the request to postpone the trials until Feb. 11. City officials said they needed time for more preparation.

Airlines to Begin Flight Expansion

COLUMBUS, O. (UP) — Lake Center Airlines will begin flights into Portsmouth on March 1 and into Toledo and Detroit, April 1 as part of extended service operations.

The airline inaugurated new service between Columbus, Ohio and Erie, Pa., Tuesday. Officials estimated 7,000 persons will use the Columbus-Erie service during 1957.

The airline plans to extend the service beyond Erie to Buffalo, N. Y., April 1.

Balance in Congress Remains About Same

WASHINGTON (UP)—The new Congress is Democratic by almost the same margin as the last.

The elections last November kept the Democrats in control of the Senate by the same 49-47 margin and gave them an edge of 234 to 201 in the House, or a net gain of two.

However, as a result of vacancies created since the election the actual party line-up in both chambers is now slightly different.

In the House, post - election deaths of Reps. Antonio Fernandez (D-NM) and T. Millet Hand (R-NJ) has reduced the membership to 233 Democrats and 200 Republicans.

There also is one Republican vacancy in the new Senate. It was caused by the decision of Sen.-elect Jacob K. Javits (R-NY) to postpone taking the oath of office. Javits is staying on temporarily as New York state attorney general in an effort to insure that his successor in that post will be a Republican.

This temporarily increased the Democratic margin to 49 to 46 and removed any possibility that Ohio's new senator Frank J. Lausche, could turn control over to the Republicans by voting with them on organization. Lausche, elected in November as a Democrat, would not say in advance whether he would vote with the Democrats or Republicans on organization of the Senate.

Congress

will grant the President's request after long hearings.

Democrats Have Edge

The civil rights issue was projected through the side door of the Senate by a bipartisan bloc which wanted the Senate to start the new session by adopting new rules. Specifically, this group wanted a new rule to make it easier to break Southern Democratic filibusters against stronger federal civil rights legislation.

The Democrats' 49-to-47 edge in the Senate was so precarious that a single death or defection could shift control to the GOP. However, the Democrats were confident that they would take control today.

Unpredictable Senator - elect Frank J. Lausche (D-Ohio), who arrived Wednesday night still refusing to say whether he would vote with the Democrats to organize the Senate, failed to show up at the caucus of all Democratic senators before the session.

Lausche told newsmen Wednesday night that he had almost decided how to vote but would not attend the Democratic caucus.

It appeared, however, that Democratic control would not hinge on Lausche's vote. Sen.-elect Jacob K. Javits (R-NY) announced that he would not take his Senate seat until next week, thus giving the Democrats a temporary additional margin of one vote—enough to offset a Lausche defection.

The House was more safety Democratic with 233 Democrats, 200 Republicans and two vacancies. At a House Democratic caucus Wednesday, Speaker Sam Rayburn was renominated for election to the job he has held longer than any man in history.

For the record, House Republicans nominated Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts for the speaker's post. After losing the election to Rayburn, he takes the minority floor leadership.

Agree On Mansfield

The Democrats were agreed on electing Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana as whip and assistant to Democratic floor Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas. Sen. Carl Hayden of Arizona was in line for nomination and election as Senate president pro tempore, to preside when Vice President Richard M. Nixon is absent.

Republicans were set to nominate Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire for president pro tempore. In one leadership shift, Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts was tapped to move from the job of party whip to chairman of the Senate GOP conference with Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois to replace him as whip.

Among the opening day formalities, the House schedule provided for swearing in all 433 of its members, who were elected or reelected in November for two-year terms.

The Senate was swearing in 34 of its 96 members.

Hold Strategy Sessions

While the House was holding its organizing caucuses Wednesday, rival Senate blocs were holding informal strategy sessions for the contest over the anti-filibuster rule.

Nineteen Southern Democrats met under the chairmanship of Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), who warned that adoption of new Senate rules would open "a Pandora's box" and tie up the Senate indefinitely. The Southerners' position is that the Senate is a continuing body and that its rules hold over each year, subject to amendment only by changes approved by the Rules Committee and then approved by the Senate with no limit on debate.

Under the present Senate rule, debate on bills can be cut off only by the vote of 64 senators.

Advocates of a new set of rules have argued that there is no chance for Senate passage of civil rights legislation until the present rule is changed to permit a majority or two-thirds of the senators voting to end debate.

Both the Southerners and their opponents agreed Wednesday not to press for a showdown on the rules change at today's session. Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-NM) planned merely to offer the motion to adopt new rules.

Woman, Five Children Die In Home Fire

READING, Pa. (UP)—A woman and five children of pre-school age were burned to death today when a flash fire swept a one-story frame home at nearby Temple.

The dead woman was the grandmother of two of the children and the aunt of the other three.

The dead were identified at the scene as Mrs. Esther Rothermel, 48; her grandchildren, Jimmy Brobst, 1, and his sister, Peggy, 3; both of Kutztown, Pa.; her nieces, Donna Rothermel, 2, of nearby Fleetwood and Carol Ann Fromm, 4, of Reading RD 2, and her nephew, Eddie Rothermel, 4, brother of Donna.

Authorities said the Brobst youngsters were children of Mrs. Rothermel's daughter, Mrs. Jean Brobst. Donna and Eddie were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Rothermel. The father is a brother of Paul Rothermel, the woman victim's husband. Carol Ann Fromm's mother, Mrs. Earl Fromm, is Paul and Marvin Rothermel's sister.

Another woman carried her two children outside to safety as the flames raged through the four-room house. They were Mrs. Gertrude Paine and her children, Lois Mary, 3, and Thomas Jerome, 1.

Firemen said it was believed the children were in bed when the fire broke out. They said the fire apparently started from a kerosene stove, which may have been leaking.

eer" who was the prime mover in the conspiracy, recommended that his original penalty be lightened in view of his failing health.

But Willson told Phillips: "If you were not ill, I'd impose the same sentence I did before."

Anderson told Willson today that Fontana's part in the conspiracy was minor and the testimony against him conflicting. Sicilia's plea for leniency to escape a jail sentence was refused despite his plea that he was dominated by Phillips and was "only trying to be one of the boys."

The government had accused the seven original defendants in the case with conspiring to interfere with civil rights by casting fake ballots in the names of dead and absent registered voters.

New Lady Lawmakers Accept Oaths Today

WASHINGTON (UP)—Two new lady lawmakers—a Democrat and a Republican—took up their duties today as members of the 85th Congress.

Rep. Florence P. Dwyer, first Republican woman ever to represent New Jersey in the House, and Rep. Kathryn E. Granahan (D-Pa) taking the seat held by her late husband for five terms, were busy unpacking books and answering telephones.

Mrs. Dwyer also was drafting her first bill. It would provide tax relief for small business.

The veteran of seven years in New Jersey's state assembly so far had nothing on her desk but a blotter, a telephone and a waiting dictaphone machine.

Not until Wednesday did her staff begin moving into her sixth floor office formerly occupied by ex-Rep. T. James Tumulty (R-NJ). Mrs. Dwyer also was still apartment hunting.

Fighting a cold, and weary from post-campaign business, a busy holiday schedule which included the marriage of her son, Michael, she planned the customary reception in her new office after the afternoon's opening session.

Mrs. Dwyer, whose husband is an industrial relations expert in Elizabeth, N. J., sought a seat on the education and labor committee.

Mrs. Granahan, an old Washington hand, is already settled at an apartment in the hotel where she and her husband lived before his death last spring.

She also is almost moved in to her new second-floor office that was vacated by Rep. Charles Raper Jonas (R-NC) when he switched to a new one. She had her eye on a different office but lost out to a congressman with more seniority.

The smart-looking, gray - haired Pennsylvanian also had her eye on a seat on the interstate and foreign commerce committee — specifically its health subcommittee which she said "for some strange reason has never had a woman member."

But she said she is happily adjusting to an offer to be on the banking and currency committee.

FAMOUS PEOPLE WHO DIED IN 1956

Claim 'Live' Atomic Artillery On U.S. Ships in Mediterranean

WASHINGTON (UP) — U. S. Marines aboard ships in the Mediterranean have been armed with "live" atomic artillery, a reporter for the Scripps-Howard newspapers said today.

Staff writer Jim G. Lucas said his information came in an exclusive interview with Gen. Randolph Pate, Marine Corps commandant, published today in Scripps-Howard newspapers.

He said Pate told him the 6th Fleet Marines have a "ground atomic capability," explaining that this meant they have atomic warheads for their artillery.

They soon will be armed with Honest John rockets, also having atomic warheads, Lucas quoted Pate.

Lucas said Gen. Pate also revealed:

1. That two reinforced Marine battalions secretly put to sea—one each from Norfolk and Japan—during the Middle East crisis with orders to proceed to the Mediterranean and Persian Gulf and stand by for orders.

2. That a reinforced company was flown to Port Lyautey, Morroco, after the Mediterranean area naval commander, Adm. Walter F. Boone, received a tip that Arab extremists might try to storm the big U.S. naval base there and seize its ammunition.

3. That Marines attached to the 6th Fleet were prepared to fight their way into Cairo "if necessary" to evacuate American civilians at the start of the Suez fighting.

At the height of the Middle East crisis, a battalion of the 3rd Marine Division in Japan put to sea and had reached the Arabian Sea before its orders were canceled. Pate told Lucas. It is now enroute back to Japan, the general said.

A battalion of the 2nd Division at Camp LeJeune, N.C., left Norfolk for the Mediterranean but turned around when the fighting ended. Pate said the men were now ashore but their heavy equipment still is aboard ship and they could re-embark "in a matter of hours."

A threatened attack on the naval base at Port Lyautey never came off. It was not disclosed whether the Marine reinforcements were still in Morocco, Lucas wrote.

leading member was Henry Dickens, son of the novelist.

When World War I broke out, he volunteered in the South Lancashire Regiment and the Tank Corps, saw action in the Gallipoli expedition and was severly wounded. He was discharged in 1919, at which time he launched his political career. He was the first Labor mayor of Stepney, a working class borough in London's East End.

Elected to Parliament in 1922, he was appointed private secretary to Ramsay McDonald, leader of the opposition, and two years later became Under-secretary of State for War. He was then 41 years of age.

He served as postmaster-general in 1931, following which was elected deputy leader of the Labor Party in the House of Commons. Four years later he became leader of the opposition as well as of the party.

During World War II, Earl Attlee was invited by Churchill to join the coalition cabinet as Lord Privy Seal, and later, became deputy prime minister, leading the government whenever Churchill was absent. In the spring of 1945 he attended the San Francisco Conference at which the United Nations charter was signed.

In the summer of 1945 he led his party in the general election and became prime minister. He led his party in two Parliaments from 1945 to 1951. When the Labor Party lost the election in 1951, Attlee again became leader of the opposition, a post he held until he resigned.

He is an author of several books and articles on political affairs and his autobiography, "As It Happened", was published in England and the United States in 1954.

Helicopters Save Eight in Blizzard At Ski Resort

CHAMONIX, France (UP)— French army helicopters shuttling between this ski resort and a refuge 12,000 feet up Mont Blanc today rescued eight men who were trapped in a blizzard when they tried to save two stranded amateur mountain climbers.

The two mountain climbers, believed near death or dead, were still on the mountain. Hermann Geiger, Switzerland's famous "glacier pilot," left his home in Sion, Switzerland, today to try to fly them out.

The first two men rescued were two French airmen whose helicopter crashed when they went to the rescue of the two amateur climbers. Then the shuttle service brought out the other guides and radio operators.

The two mountain climbers whose plight touched off a chain reaction series of mishaps involving eight other men were Frenchman Jean Vincedon, 23, and Belgian Francois Henri, 24. Both were in critical condition when a blizzard forced the eight others to abandon them Tuesday night.

Gruenther Failed Physical for Army

WASHINGTON (UP)— Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, former Allied commander in Europe, was found "permanently unfit for duty by reason of physical disability of 40 per cent" at the time of his retirement from the Army.

The finding of disability by Army doctors, revealed in Army orders today, means that 40 per cent of the general's $11,487 a year retired pay will be free of income tax according to Army officials.

Gruenther, who is 57, took over as president of the American Red Cross Wednesday. The post pays $30,000 a year.

Plant in Operation

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP) — Robertshaw-Fulton Controls Co. announced today a modern $2 million manufacturing plant has begun operations at the firm's Bridgeport thermostat division at Milford, Conn.

Price Fixing Charges Placed Against 15

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—The state of Wisconsin has asked fines of $5,000 each against 15 manufacturers and dealers of "rock salt" on charges of price fixing and restraint of competition.

Calcium chloride, the technical name for "rock salt," is used mostly to control ice in the winter and dust in the summer. It is spread on highways, sometimes mixed with other substances.

The state declared Wednesday that the 15 had been engaged in a "continuing and unlawful combination and conspiracy to restrain competition in price and supply" of rock salt since 1938.

In a complaint filed at Milwaukee County Circuit Court, the state requested fines of $5,000 each for the defendents in addition to any other punishment handed down by the court. The complaint said the manufacturers have a 100 per cent monopoly of all calcium chloride produced or sold in this country.

The manufacturers named were Allied Chemical and Dye Corp. of New York; Dow Chemical of Michigan; Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., of Pa.; Columbia - Southern Chemical Corp., Pa.; and Wyandotte Chemical Corp., Mich.

The dealers named were E. I. DuPont De Nemours & Co., Del.; Merchants Chemical, New York; and Cunnington-Ortmayer, Reichel-Korman, Topp Oil and Chemical; Badger Chemical. Tews Lime and Cement, W. H. Pipkorn and Hydrite Chemical, all of Milwaukee.

Trapped Suez Ships May Soon Leave Waterway

CAIRO (UP)— Thirteen ships trapped in the Suez Canal more than two months will be able to move out of the waterway into the Mediterranean Sea in about four days, the general manager of the Egyptian Suez Canal Co. said today.

The vessels of various types and nationalities were caught in the canal between El Ballah and El Cap last Oct. 31 when Anglo-French planes carried out the first attacks on Egypt.

General Manager Mahmoud Younis said salvage operations in the northern stretch of the 101-mile waterway would shortly permit the ships to sail southwards to Lake Timsah where they can turn around for the run northwards to Port Said.

Salvage experts have estimated it will take until March to open the canal to smaller vessels and at least May before all the obstructions have been removed.

From One Extreme

NEW YORK (UP)—The U. S. Weather Bureau said Mt. Washington, N.H., resembled a deep freeze unit this morning. Its 26 below zero temperature was the lowest reported in the nation. The highest temperature Wednesday was 77 degrees at Miami, Fla.

170 Violent County Deaths

80 Killed In Traffic Accidents

A total of 170 violent deaths occurred in Westmoreland County during 1956, according to the annual report submitted today by Coroner Stephen D. Yoney.

Traffic deaths led the list with 80 reported for streets and highways in the county. Seventy-three of the deaths involved autos, five persons were killed in truck accidents and auto-bicyle crashes claimed two lives.

Of the traffic total, 33 were drivers, 25 passengers, 19 pedestrians and two bicyclists.

The report showed there were 24 suicides during the year and homicides accounted for six deaths.

Five Suffocate

Five persons died of suffocation, three were electrocuted, eight drowned and 15 died from falls. Burns proved fatal to three

Industrial accidents killed six, five occurring in mills and one in a mine Two died from carbon monoxide poisoning, two from tractor accidents and two were crushed to death by heavy construction equipment

One died from exposure and another from shock following a blow on the chest.

Heart disease claimed a total of 256 persons and 40 died from cerebral hemorrhage

In all, 529 deaths were investigated by the coroner's office including 142 inquests and 12 autopsies.

Bar Association Renews Fight for Judge Selection

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Pennsylvania Bar Association said today it will renew its efforts in the 1957 Legislature for passage of its Pennsylvania Plan for the Selection of Judges

The plan, designed to remove the selection of the state judiciary from partisan politics, would provide a one-year trial period for newly appointed judges, recommended by a non-partisan judicial committee consisting of three members of the bar, one judge and three lay citizens appointed by the governor.

The plan was killed in committee at three previous sessions of the General Assembly

The proposed legislation would be effective on all appointments to the state Supreme and Superior courts, to all courts in Philadelphia and Allegheny counties, and could be adopted in other courts by local option

In order to become law, enabling legislation would have to be approved by two successive sessions of the Legislature, and approved in a statewide referendum as an amendment to the state Constitution

Eden Rejects Soviet Request For Conference

LONDON (UP)— British Prime Minister Anthony Eden today joined France in rejecting "in the present circumstances" a Soviet request for a five-power disarmament conference

Eden's action, announced by the Foreign Office, followed the lead set Wednesday by President Eisenhower and matched by a similar French rejection today in Paris

A Foreign Office spokesman said Eden's rejection of a five-power conference was contained in a note sent to Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and released here today.

The five nations suggested by Russia were the Soviet Union Britain, France, the United States and India

The action was announced as Eden met with his cabinet for the first time this year to seek answers to dangerous challenges to his own leadership at home and to Britain's leadership abroad

W. R. H Patterson, past president of the Monessen Kiwanis Club, who officially began his duties as Lt. Governor of Division 8, Ja. I. installed the officers of the Connellsville Kiwanis Club at a luncheon meeting yesterday and the Jeannette Kiwanis Officers at a dinner meeting last night.

Mr. Patterson was accompanied to Jeannette by Charles Penwick, president of the Monessen Kiwanis Club and immediate past president, Rudy Benedetti.

Tomorrow he will install the new officers for the Uniontown and Mt Pleasant Clubs.

Hungarian Rebels Still Defying Orders from Kadar Regime

VIENNA (UP)—Rebellious workers councils are openly defying the Communist regime by refusing to fire idled employes in the nationalized Hungarian factories, it was reported today.

The Soviet-packed Janos Kadar regime ordered more than 200,000 workers fired New Years Day Virtually all of Hungary's industry has been paralyzed for weeks by a power shortage caused by coal shortages

Reports reaching Vienna indicated worker councils in many plants ignored the government orders In some instances, they seized factory funds in order to keep employes on full pay.

Show No Mercy

It was a risky business The government has shown no mercy to worker leaders who continue to display any resistance Hundreds of former leaders of the outlawed regional workers councils were arrested for refusing to knuckle down to the Red regime

The Kadar regime was reported to have already taken steps to enforce its mass unemployment decree Orders have been issued to banks to limit withdrawals by factories to their earnings. Previously management was permitted overdrafts to meet wage demands.

There were reports that some factories beat the government to the punch by withdrawing all funds from local banks.

Provokes Violent Reaction

The threat of mass unemployment with its subsequent threats of hunger and cold already has shown signs of provoking violent reaction among the embittered Hungarians.

Hungarian police and militia rammed trucks into a crowd of jeering, hooting women Wednesday to crush a flash demonstration against police strong-arm methods in Budapest The incident in front of a state-run department store was seen as a reflection of the angry mood caused by the mass dismissal orders.

Budapest radio said Wednesday night more than 40,000 miners are needed in the national coal mines. It blamed the drastic manpower shortage on the mistakes of the repudiated regime of Stalinist ex-Premier Matyas Rakosi.

Little Boy Is Geo. Washington Of Modern Times

GREENSBORO, NC (UP)— Somewhere in Greensboro there is a little boy who is in the doghouse and chances are he'll be back in it when his father gets his personal property tax bills.

The father was listing his property at the County Courthouse for county and city taxes

"And now as to your television set what size screen is it?," the lister asked.

"Seventeen inches," the father replied

His son promptly piped up "Why, Dad, you know our set's a 21-inch"

The father then asked the boy, about 9 or 10, to take a seat on a bench

The questioning then turned to the family car and the type of brakes "No it doesn't have power brakes," the father said.

From Junior "Why, Dad, you know our car has power brakes"

After completing the form the clerk told the father that all the necessary information seemed to be in order.

"Well, if it isn't, it's not this young boy's fault," the father said as he grasped his son firmly by the hand and led him from the courthouse

Canadian Railway On Strike

MONTREAL, Que. (UP) — The coast-to-coast operations of the Canadian Pacific Railway were tied up today by a strike of 2,800 firemen. Picket lines were honored by all other operating employes.

The strike cut off half of Canada's train service and in some points threatened isolation and possible food shortages. Residents of remote communities in northern Ontario particularly geared for a tough time and hoped for an easy winter without much snow, which would make roads impassable.

Airlines stood by to bring out extra equipment usually called into service only at peak travel periods such as Christmas and other holiday weekends. The Canadian Trucking Association promised to "see the nation through" and give priority to food, medical supplies "and other urgent priority shipments essential to human life." The CTA represents operators of 75,000 public vehicles and 845 000 privately-owned trucks.

Ontario was the first of several provincial governments to announce plans for emergency shipments of food and other supplies by truck where necessary.

Prime Minister Louis St Laurent, who spent the holiday in Quebec City while his cabinet aides tried unsuccessfully to persuade the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen to call off the strike, listed the rail dispute as the top item for discussion at the cabinet's first 1957 meeting today. The strike began Wednesday afternoon.

The strike issue centered around the use of firemen on diesel trains. The railway contended that firemen-helpers were unnecessary on yard and freight diesel locomotive service. The union argued that firemen were needed if diesel engines were to operate safely and efficiently. A federal conciliation board's majority report ruled last month mostly in favor of the company.

GOP Plans to Challenge Rhode Island Decision

PROVIDENCE, R I (UP)—Republicans planned today to challenge the court decision which re-elected Gov. Dennis J. Roberts They said they would appeal to the U S Supreme Court

Roberts was declared victor in the gubernatorial race when the Rhode Island Supreme Court invalidated absentee and shut-in ballots These ballots had given the election to Republican Christopher Del Sesto.

The Rhode Island court ruled that a statute enacted in 1953 and signed into law by Roberts which allowed absentee ballots to be cast "on or before" election day was unconstitutional

William W Gosling, former town council resident of Middletown said he would take an appeal of the ruling to the U.S Supreme Court on the ground that the court ruling violated the Constitution's 14th Amendment, dealing with the rights of citizens

Humphrey Bogart Is 'Feeling Fine'

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Actor Humphrey Bogart said today that he "feels fine" in his battle to regain his strength following an operation for throat cancer last winter

The 56-year-old movie tough guy has recovered sufficiently to receive visitors at his home and sit with his wife, actress Lauren Bacall, for a time in their living room each day. Wednesday night Bogart even sipped a drink while entertaining movie director William Wyler and Mrs. Wyler.

Bogart, however, has been unable to regain the weight he has lost since the operation. He weighs only 115 pounds 35 pounds under his normal weight.

Congressman Is Sworn in; Faces Federal Arrest

SCRANTON, Pa (UP) —A federal bench warrant for the arrest of Democratic Congressman William J. Green Jr., of Philadelphia was held in abeyance today while Green was being sworn in to his fourth term of office at Washington.

Green, indicted last month on charges of illegally using his Congressional influence for contracts at the $33-million Tobyhanna Signal Corps Depot, was temporarily free of the bench warrant under orders of U. S. Attorney J Julius Levy.

Levy said warrants for others indicted in the federal grand jury investigation would be served today or Friday. He pointed out that Green is not immune to arrest because he is charged with conspiracy to defraud the federal government.

UN Discusses Korea

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP) —The General Assembly's main Political Committee takes up the perennial problem of divided Korea today despite objections by the Soviet Union and India.

The United States and its Western Allies were expected to move for adoption of a report calling for continued U N. assistance to the Republic of Korea and a continuation of the 1953 armistice agreement pending a full political settlement

The Political Committee put the Korean question at the top of its agenda late Wednesday, to be followed by disarmament, Algeria, Cyprus and West Irian (West New Guinea)

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister V. V. Kuznetsov insisted that disarmament be discussed first and the Korean question be placed last on the agenda.

But U S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., apparently mindful of President Eisenhower's latest letter to Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin on the question, said the United States would not be ready to discuss disarmament until next week. He favored placing it second.

Indian sources said their delegation wanted postponement of the Korean discussion because it could not get instructions from New Delhi soon enough on how to handle their end of it

The Republic of Korea government has charged that India permitted some of the prisoners of war it held following the Korean war to return to Red China and North Korea but not to South Korea. India has claimed it sent all such POWs where they wanted to go.

Governor Leader's Opening Speech

GOVERNOR Leader's opening address to the State Assembly seems to suggest that he wants to cooperate with — rather than to fight —the new Republican majorities in the Assembly. If the Governor means everything he says in this respect, and if the Republican leaders are similarly disposed, the present session of the legislature could be a very different affair than the last session.

Mr. Leader appears to have learned, as a result of his previous experience, that the way for an executive to get results when one or both houses of the law-making body is controlled by the opposition party is not through prolonged struggle from irreconcilable and uncompromising positions. The way to get results in such circumstances is through leadership, compromise, conciliation and cooperation.

So it is encouraging to read in the Governor's address his observation "that there is no more reason for a cold war between the Governor and the General Assembly than there is between the President and Congress".

The Republicans in the Assembly should welcome and should respond to Mr. Leader's expressed desire "to remove temptations of party competition which conflict with the rightful expectations of the people of the state".

"All of us must know," said the Governor, "that there can be no reward, in conscience or in politics, to be gained from obstruction for obstruction's sake." Amen.

* * *

ALMOST as significant as what Governor Leader said in this speech, however, is what he did not say. He makes no mention of having a tax program of his own to present to the Assembly. And his brief and favorable reference to the recent report of the Tax Policy Advisory Committee, which recommends retaining the sales tax at three per cent as the keystone of a revenue program, suggests that the Governor will be willing to accept such a program if the Assembly should send it to him.

This is a radical change in attitude, for the sole cause of the exhaustive 17-month session of the last Assembly was the Governor's objection to the sales tax and his insistence upon some form of income tax. If he now seems reconciled to the sales tax, this itself represents progress.

We believe Mr. Leader is on solid ground, moreover, if he means to give the initiative on tax policies to the Republican leaders. The last election can properly be regarded as a mandate to that effect, and now that the Republicans control both houses of the Assembly, instead of just the Senate, it makes practical sense that they should assume original responsibility in all legislative matters and particularly in budget and revenue measures.

This means that the 1958 election, in which the next Governor will be chosen, probably will turn upon the records made by the two parties in the Assembly session now getting underway. And this, too, is as it should be.

'Stalinism' Wins

JOE STALIN, who was an ornery old goat in many ways, must be thoroughly enjoying the lack of success which his successors are having in laying his ghost.

It was less than a year ago that Nikita Khrushchev announced that "Stalinism" must go and launched the Soviet regime on a calculated program of destroying Stalin, his memory as well as his works. And Khrushchev's declaration ~~was boiled~~ nearly everywhere as a great turning point for world Communism, an event which, if we did not understand all of its immediate implications, was nevertheless recognizable as crucial in world history.

Khrushchev and company have been relatively silent — for them — for several weeks. In the face of the Polish and Hungarian revolts, they lost their tongues and have been letting events do the talking. And it has been widely guessed that inside the Kremlin some serious new decisions were being made and that they had something to do with "Stalinism".

Well, we are beginning now to learn what these decisions were — and from Khrushchev himself, no less. He says that, on second thought, Stalin was not so bad. He made some mistakes, but who doesn't? And when it comes to fighting imperialism, as for instance in Hungary, then, says K., "we are all Stalinists".

Presumably this is the new "line". And Communists, not all of whom have completed the downgrading of Stalin in accordance with the previous Khrushchev line, must now begin to upgrade him again. Not completely, apparently, but appreciably.

Just how much more of this tortuous nonsense the Russian people and the satellite people are prepared to absorb, we wouldn't know. It must be getting more indigestible all the time.

But old Joe — what a picnic he must be having. Usually it's the corpse which spins.

Merry-Go-Round—

Rayburn and Johnson Slip In Home State

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — As Congress convenes today, the Democratic party finds itself in tenuous control, under the leadership of two men who are no longer leaders among the people who elect them.

Mr. Pearson

Most of the Democratic senators and representatives who will accept the leadership of Sen. Lyndon Johnson and Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas today do not know that back in Texas these two men have hit an all-time low.

For the first time in his life, Sam Rayburn was booed by his own Texas followers at the state convention last fall. In a way it was not Sam's fault. He was being loyal to a younger man whom he had helped to train, and who got him into trouble.

That man, Lyndon Johnson, would have real difficulty staying in the Senate were an election held in Texas today. Yet he will now ride herd on other senators, will try to dictate legislation for them and for all the people of the United States.

It's an ironic twist of political fate. But the man who helped lose Texas for the Democratic ticket last November now wants to run the Democratic party in Washington. While he couldn't be elected dog-catcher by loyalist Democrats back in Texas, here in Washington he declines to cooperate with Stevenson, Truman and Kefauver on an advisory committee for the Democratic party.

Lyndon's Own Fault

No man in the U. S. Senate is shrewder than Lyndon Johnson; no man more powerful in putting across a program; no man better knows the political ropes, has more legislative know-how. He has accomplished some great things in the Senate. When he puts his country and his party first Lyndon is unassailable. When he puts himself ahead of party and country he comes to grief. In his day, Lyndon has done both.

Lyndon's troubles in Texas are almost entirely of his own making. If he had not put a personal grudge ahead of his party, his name would not be jeered at among loyalist Texans today.

Here is the story that his fellow Democrats in Congress don't know as to what happened:

When Texas Democrats voted last May for the state convention at Dallas to pick delegates to the Chicago national convention, they gave Republicrat Gov. Allan Shivers the trouncing of his life. His forces were routed. Johnson-Rayburn-loyalist forces won.

At that point Johnson could have organized a new loyalist leadership of the Democratic party. He didn't. He appeased Governor Shivers. He and Shivers are the type who can call each other names publicly, then go out and have a drink together privately. Many an evening the Governor, despite public opposition to Johnson, has driven down to Lyndon's ranch outside Austin and spent a quiet evening dividing up political spoils in Texas.

So, immediately after the loyalists defeated the Shivercrats last May, Lyndon turned his back on the loyalists and rescued the Shivercrats. He kept in power the Shivers-stacked Texas state Democratic executive committee.

Lyndon's Enemy Wins

But Lyndon lost one battle at the Dallas state convention in May. Mrs. Frankie Randolph, Houston lumber heiress and a liberal whom Lyndon hates, was elected Democratic national comitteewoman.

Came the second state convention at Fort Worth in September and Lyndon passed word to the Shivercrats and the Price Danielites that Mrs. Randolph was not even to be given an honorary official badge to get on the convention floor.

Mrs. Randolph was Democratic national committeewoman, duly elected. Yet she was kept waiting all day in a cowbarn, near the convention hall. With her was kept waiting the entire loyalist Democratic delegation from Harris County (Houston), the most active and most loyal county of all. Its Democrats had gone down the line for Stevenson in 1952, had remained vigorously loyal in 1956.

But they were not enthusiastic over Lyndon Johnson. Other loyalist Democratic delegates from other areas also were not enthusiastic over Lyndon.

So Lyndon conspired with his old enemy and sometimes-friend, Shivers, and with Sen. Price Daniel, who also had turned against the Democrats in 1952, to bar these fighting loyalist Democrats from the state convention.

Progress Towards Equality

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

If an inter-planetary visitor had dropped in on the United States anytime during the year 1956, he could easily have gained the impressions from glaring headlines and various incidents, that the American people were engaged in a bitter, deadend controversy over whether a nation, dedicated to the proposition of political equality, can long exist — and may not.

Mr. Drummond

Fortunately it would be a false impression. The exact opposite is the truth. The truth is that the American people are engaged in the rewarding process of realizing one of our greatest democratic promises, total political equality under law for all. We are making tremendous headway.

The glaring headlines, telling of a mob threatening Negro children on the way to school, of hooded cross-burners re-lighting some of their fires of resistance, of some governors seeking ways to evade the Supreme Court, do not reflect an insoluble problem; they reflect our concentration upon solving the problem.

Steady Progress

We are solving it steadily, persistently, visibly, sometimes painfully. In gauging the struggle that still lies ahead it is well to look at some of the reassuring evidence of progress.

The record of progress in civil rights from 1948 to 1957 has been compiled by the American Jewish Committee in New York, which, in so doing, has performed a valuable public service in helping us all to see this problem in perspective. It is an impressive story, factually told. Its central fact is that during the past nine years there have been 298 separate, solid, significant actions — judicial, legislative, administrative and voluntary — taken by federal, state and municipal government and private groups all advancing and securing equal rights of citizenship in the following ways:

Presidential orders that paved the way for integration in the armed services.

State and local laws barring discrimination on the job, in public housing, and in tax-supported colleges.

Court rulings outlawing racial segregation in public school and in a wide variety of public accommodations.

Spontaneous actions of private citizens and groups to further political equality.

Democracy in Action

Here are some of the steps which show American democracy in action, demonstrating that it has within itself the seeds of adaptation and change and self-reform:

U. S. Supreme Court sets aside death sentence of Georgia Negro because jury was chosen on racial basis.

Democratic state primaries opened to Negroes in Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana and Texas.

U. S. Supreme Court rules compulsory segregation in public schools is unconstitutional.

Moves toward desegregation are initiated in close to 1,000 school districts and units in Southern and border states. By October 1956, desegregation is underway in 797 school districts affecting 319,000 Negro and 2,000,000 white children. Some 110 of 208 tax-supported Southern colleges now admit Negro students.

Poll of 15,000 Southern college teachers reveals that 70 per cent favor integration in professional and graduate schools.

Big league baseball teams start using Negro players and Pacific Coast League hires first Negro umpire.

Discriminatory advertisements by employment agencies rejected by telephone directories.

Journal of American Medical Association drops designations by race and creed from "situations wanted" advertisements.

Indians Can Vote

Federal District Court removes last restriction on the right of American Indians to vote.

Miami erases color line in its library.

Southern Presbyterian church votes to absorb colored Presbyteries in white Synods.

National Press Club elects first Negro member.

And so forth and so forth.

Much remains to be done and on this point the preface to the American Jewish Committee's incandescent report rightly remarks:

"Time and patience will be required to change practices that have long been the only accepted pattern for millions of Americans. But each passing year makes it increasingly clear that the clock will not be turned back — that America will continue its everforward march toward 'one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.'"

Pipe Smoker's Friend

By MARGARET LATROBE

Tobacconist Michael Timothy, whose specialty is blending pipe tobaccos to individual tastes of his clients, is a friendly fellow. His features reflect more than good will toward man; his eyes have an anticipatory twinkle of assurance that customers are about to say something interesting.

Mrs. Latrobe

The last man to have anything against cigar and cigarette smokers, still Mr. Timothy cannot conceal his conviction that men who smoke pipes are invariably reflective, reasonable, often brilliant and always gentlemen.

"And until a man has found his own blend of tobaccos," adds Timothy, "he doesn't know what true pleasure a pipe can give. Men may change wives, jobs, politics, friends — but once they find the right blend of pipe mixture they stay with it the rest of their lives."

With the same detached patience of a graduate school dean viewing callow freshmen, most pipe devotees look with tolerance and sympathy upon those who have yet to discover the ultimate in smoking. Denunciations of their art are met with amused half-smiles. Employers have occasionally declared they would have no pipe-smokers around — wasting hours firing, re-firing, loading, tamping, tapping, puffing and firing the briar all over again.

Ha! Smoking a pipe is hard work, requiring diligence and concentration. Is it not reasonable that any man who likes hard work of one kind might apply the same degree of effort on whatever the boss thinks important? Of course.

Pipes require tender loving care — like children and dogs. And true lovers of such creatures like 'em in large numbers. A chap with only a couple of pipes is but an associate member of the great fraternity of briar brethren. Some of these gentlemen are content with one pipe for each day of the week; a few reach for "contemplative mood" pipes or "10th of the month" pipes or "let us be Gay" pipes. Some number them for days of the month, never deviating so wildly as to smoke on the pipe designated for the 20th.

Real pipe men may fancy Chinese water pipes, long stemmed clay "church wardens" or carved ivories lined in meerschaum. But the blend of tobacco — ah, sweet aromatic bliss. Ranking with the old school tie, family escutcheon and mamma's apple pie, tobacco humidly mixed to a man's personal taste is one of life's unvarying verities. Based in Kentucky burley, augmented with Virginia and North Carolina leaves, carefully weighed amounts of Perique, Latakia, Yendje and Havana, sweetened with Irish aromatics and one more portion of Maryland base — and what have you?

A smoke worth having, that's what.

Eisenhower Facing Peculiar Problem

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower is confronted by a new Congress controlled by the opposition under a handicap never imposed on other presidents.

The handicap is the 22nd Amendment to the U. S. Constitution which bars Mr. Eisenhower from a third term. Not that Mr. Eisenhower would be likely to seek or to accept a third term.

Mr. Wilson

But patronage-hungry politicians are more likely to go along with the policies of a president who has a potential, even if unlikely, third term ahead of him than with a president who must vacate 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue by constitutional mandate at the end of term No. 2.

Moving Date Definite

Mr. Eisenhower must move out no later than 12 noon on Jan. 20, 1961, and everyone knows it. His successor probably is somewhere around Washington this week as the 85th Congress maneuvers toward its first session Thursday. A considerable number of persons believe they already have spotted the man — at least the man who will get the Republican Party's 1960 presidential nomination.

He is, of course, Vice President Richard M. Nixon. If political events during the next two or three years support the judgment of those who see Nixon as the next Republican leader, things might get a bit sticky for Mr. Eisenhower. Two party leaders is one too many. Division of authority at the top could be both embarrassing and politically disastrous.

Mr. Eisenhower would still hold the powers of office. But the younger man would have the advantage of a chance to gain those powers during the immediate years to come. There's nothing in Nixon's conduct to suggest that he would welcome or further such a situation. It is a situation, however, which is very likely to develop regardless of the wishes of the men and of the party most directly involved.

Control May Be Lacking

The President may find himself in the position of a ringmaster without a whip or a motorist with an empty tank. He has avowed his purpose to make over the Republican Party in a new mold. The mold considerably resembles the first term Roosevelt New Deal, minus the New Deal's eager interest in centralizing government on the Pennsylvania Avenue axis which extends from the White House to the Capitol, skirting the Treasury and other departments en route.

This make-over is to be further accomplished largely by the second term Eisenhower legislative program. Mr. Eisenhower will need congressional action to translate his party ideals into fact. All the power and prestige of the White House office may fall short of what it will take to keep congressional Republicans in line for what Mr. Eisenhower has in mind, especially since each passing day brings him closer to forced retirement.

Behind The News—

Italian Communists In Serious Trouble

By CHARLES M. McCANN

Italy's Communist Party, the largest in Europe outside the Iron Curtain, is in serious trouble.

It is losing heavily in its card-carrying membership. It is losing out in the leadership of the great Italian labor unions where it was dominant for years.

It is being torn by a big internal fight which may develop into a threat to the leadership of its veteran boss Palmiro Togliatti.

And next month, it is most likely that the Italian Left Wing Socialist Party will formally announce the end of its 10-year fellow-travelling alliance with the Communists.

The plight of the Italian party stems, of course, from the denunciation of Josef Stalin's dictatorship by the Russian Reds and the Polish and Hungarian rebellions which resulted from it.

Togliatti, at the recent national party congress, felt himself compelled to support the murderous Russian intervention in the Hungarian revolt. His support was half-hearted and was obviously given solely because he thought it unwise to weaken the Communist movement any further.

Reject Togliatti's Leadership

But some leading Italian Communists refused to go along with Togliatti.

One of them, Senator Eugenio Reale, let loose a blast against Togliatti last Thursday. Reale said in an interview that the party was blinding itself to the "great turn" which had come about in world Communism as the result of the Russian repudiation of Stalinist dictatorship.

Reale said that opposition speakers were chocked off at the party congress and that the election which confirmed Togliatti in his leadership was rigged.

As the result, the Communist Provincial Control Commission for the Naples area, from which Reale comes, voted last week end to expel him from the party.

Reale announced that he would continue his fight, either inside or outside the party.

It has been disclosed that only about 1.1 million card-carrying members of the party have renewed their membership for 1957. The strength of the party has been estimated at a minimum of 1.7 million in recent months. Some estimates have put the total at 2.4 million.

Lose Committee Control

In shop steward elections in the gigantic Michelin rubber and tire works in Milan in mid-December, the Communist vote dropped by nearly 60 per cent. For the first time since the end of the war, the Communists lost control of the shop steward committee.

The present situation marks a radical change from the Communist Party's position a few years ago. In 1948, there was grave fear throughout the free world that the Communists might win the national parliamentary election.

The Communists still hold 143 seats out of 590 in the Chamber of Deputies. The left wing Socialists hold 75. Pietro Nenni, the Left Wing Socialist leader, for months has been drawing closer to a break with the Communists. It is likely that the break will be made formally when the Left Wing Socialists hold their national congress next month.

Thirty Years Ago—

Monday, January 3, 1927

A deed has been placed on record in Greensburg whereby 12 acres of river front have been transferred by the Carnegie Steel Co. to the American Sheet & Tin Plate Co. for a consideration of $135,000. It has been known for some time that enlargements to the local plant have been considered.

The first sledding of the season is being enjoyed today as boys and girls took possession of the streets and sidewalks. The new Monessen highway was lined with happy youngsters.

Olive Pannabaker returned to school today at Lake Erie College at Painesville, O., after spending the Christmas holidays at her home here.

Eta Zeta Chapter to Aid Dimes Drive

Members of the Eta Zeta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi planned to aid the March of Dimes in an unusual way, when they met last night in the Civic Center.

The girls hope to collect a "Mile of Dimes" on the streets of Monessen on Jan. 12. All members will take part and they will stretch a tape on Donner avenue from Sixth street to Fourth street. As each dime is collected it will be placed on the tape. All funds collected in this manner will go to the local March of Dimes collection.

Mrs. Jack Sonafelt, president, was in charge of last night's session, during which routine reports were given and the activity of the group during the holiday season discussed.

Vote Contribution

A contribution was voted to Mrs. William Dryden, chairman of the ways and means committee, who announced that the sale of Christmas cards was very successful

Also planned was one of the social highlights of the chapter year, a valentine party, at which special tribute will be paid to Donna Manderino, who was elected as the chapter's "Valentine Girl". The party will be held on Feb. 6 and will be in the form of a dinner. The place will be announced.

Plan Career Night

The program committee announced plans for a "Career Night" at the Jan. 16 meeting. At this time the single members of the chapter will entertain the married members by telling something of their work. The married members recently presented a fashion show of their wedding gowns.

The members also plan to take part in a "Women's World" contest to be sponsored by a Pittsburgh newspaper.

The cultural program for the evening was in charge of Shirley Tressler, who used as her topic, "Beauty and Art". She gave a talk on the subject and also displayed some of her original paintings.

Date Set by Charthene Club For Snow Ball

Plans have been launched for the annual Snow Ball by members of the Charthene Club of Charleroi and the date has been set for Friday evening, Feb. 8. Annually this dance attracts people from all valley towns.

The dance will be semi-formal and the committee has secured the Artie Arnell orchestra to provide the music in compliance with many requests from those who attended last year's dance.

In keeping with the trend of the cold weather event the committee has adopted "Winter Wonderland" as the theme for the decorations and program.

Mrs. Robert Krusey, general chairman of the dance, has announced that a "Snow Queen" and "Snow King" will again be chosen during the evening as one of the highlights of the ball.

St. John Altar Guild Plans Holiday Party

A special meeting was held on Friday evening to plan the annual Christmas party for members of the Ladies Altar Guild of St. John the Divine Russian Orthodox Church Mrs. Henrietta Patrick will serve as general chairman of the party which will be held on Wednesday, Jan. 9, in the Russian Hall.

A committee of members is arranging the program, which will include the serving of a hot lunch at 6:30 p. m. with an exchange of gifts and a holiday program to follow. There will be a visit by "Santa", the singing of carols and the awarding of a door prize.

WED AT ST. CAJETAN — Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Campana were wed on Wednesday, Dec. 26, at St. Cajetan R. C. Church. Before her marriage Mrs. Campana was Michalene Garafola. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Garafola, of Reeves avenue. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Campana, of East Schoonmaker avenue. The couple went to Philadelphia for the wedding trip and now have an apartment on Schoonmaker avenue. The bride is a member of the faculty of the Ben Franklin School. She was graduated from Monessen High and California State Teachers College. Her husband is employed at Pittsburgh Steel Co.

Rev. Allan J. Howes Speaks At Quota Dinner Meeting

The Rev. Allan J. Howes, formerly pastor of the First Methodist Church of Monessen, now serving at the Asbury Methodist Church of Uniontown, spoke to the local Quotarians last night at a dinner meeting in Johnson's Cape Cod room.

His talk was in the form of a book review of the volume "Lucy Crown" by Irwin Shaw. Dr. Howes held the complete attention of his audience through a detailed and descriptive account of a story of a beautiful woman, whose life was entirely dictated by her wealthy husband. He concluded with a religious significance to the story and was well received.

Give Donation

Dinner was served at 6.15 and the program followed the serving.

There was also a business session during which Mrs. Helen Gribben, second vice president, was in charge in the absence of the club president, Julia Mazur.

The members also joined in repeating the Club Collect.

A contribution was voted for Hungarian War relief.

Since this was the first meeting since early in December the business session included plans for the approaching meetings and spring season events.

Plans were made for a business session to be held on Wednesday evening, Jan. 16, at the Park Casino.

B.P.W. Federation Head Stresses Legislation

Mrs. Isabella J. Jones, president of the Pennsylvania State Business and Professional Women's Club Federation, has asked all state BPW members to activate the legislation program in their clubs in 1957.

The state request is in accordance with the work of the national president, Hazel Palmer, of Sedalia, Mo, who is leading 170,000 women in working for the passage of measures included in the National Federation's 1957 platform at the biennial convention last summer in Miami.

The state and national organizations are also planning support of the government in home and foreign policy measures and has requested each local club to take a similar stand.

Local clubs have been asked to send in resolutions concerning all parts of the Federation platform so they can be taken up at a national committee meeting in Washington, Jan. 11.

St. Mary's Ladies Club Sets Two Activities at Meeting Held Last Night at Church

The St. Mary's Ladies Club met last night in the church hall for the regular January meeting. Immediately following the recitation of the rosary in the church the business session was conducted. It began with the saluate to the flag.

Routine reports were given and the president, Mrs. Agnes Popovich, presided. Plans were made for a bake sale on Jan. 27. It will be held in the church hall immediately after each mass. Mrs. Helen Nemosek will be general chairman assisted by Mrs. Helen Gido, Mrs. Anna Burdock, Mrs Bertha Patrick, Mrs. Helen Mayernik and Mrs. Anna Kiseda.

Card Party

Another activity discussed was a card party, which will highlight the pre-Lenten season. It was set for Feb. 24 and it will be held in the church hall. Mrs. Ann Kossar was appointed chairman for this affair and will have Mrs. Mary Dzatko as co-chairman and they will be assisted by Mrs. Irene Skoczlas, Mrs. Anna Kritsky, Mrs. Mary Beresh, Mrs. Michael Selestak, Mrs. Anna Ciepley, Mrs. Elizabeth Pehonsky, Mrs. Helen Panzo, Mrs. Mary Twardy, Mrs. Irene Sowko, Mrs. Alice Fordanish, Mrs. Anna Powk, Mrs. Helen Zawoyski, Mrs. Anna Kovalsky, Miss Mary Kurtyak, Mrs. Mary Desko, Mrs. Mary Mchalik, Mrs. William Selestak, and Mrs. Agnes Popovich.

Observing January birthdays and receiving handkerchiefs were Mrs. Mary Wargo, Mrs. Mary Duran, Mrs. Anna Roscoe, Mrs Anna Havran, Mrs. Alma Cekola and Mrs. Mary Secletar.

The winner of the guest prize was Mrs. Anna Beres.

Appointed as the February lunch committee were Mrs. Margaret Pankovich assisted by Mrs. Anna Chan, Mrs. Mary Pinasko, Mrs. Anna Dankanich, Mrs. Helen Sivak, Mrs. Anna Kossar, Mrs. Lena Tweardy and Mrs. Sue Micka.

After the business meeting there was a social time. Winning various game prizes were Mrs. Anna Chan and Mrs. Anna Spiegelberg

Luncheon was served by Mrs. Anna Kiseda assisted by Mrs Irene Kritsky, Mrs. Anna Kovalsky, Mrs. Mary Helon Mrs. Ann Dragan and Mrs. Anna Burdock, Mrs. Anna Dzatko and Mrs. Anna Ciepley.

The next regular meeting will be Feb. 5.

Local News

Bill Ninchak, of Oneida street, has returned to his home after spending the New Year holiday week end in New York City. While there he attended the Broadway stage productions, "Happy Hunting", "Separate Tables" and "Auntie Mame". He also visited his nephew, Cadet Charles Belan at the United States Military Academy at West Point.

Toimi Kyllonen spent a few days here visiting his parents, Mr and Mrs. Andrew Kyllonen of Clarendon avenue. He is an associate professor of sociology at the University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo.

The business meeting that was to be held this evening at 8 o'clock at the Union Baptist Church has been postponed because of the illness of the pastor, the Rev. E. W. Jarrett and will be held at a later date.

A special meeting for the officers and members of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Russian American Association will be held this evening at 7 o'clock at the Russian Hall.

Charleroi Cagers Good Defensively

In winning the holiday tournament at Johnstown last week, the Charleroi Cougars limited Altoona to just 30 field goal attempts. That great defensive play paved the way to an easy 48-33 decision . . . As a result of the one-sided win, CHS Coach Henry Pennline predicts that his boys have now gained the confidence they need in tough WPIAL competition . . . And fellow sports reporter Bob Petriello of Brownsville forecasts: "Charleroi High will march through the Section 5 basketball race and move right to the finals of the WPIAL." . . . Maybe so, but it must be noted that it takes luck as well as skill to win WPIAL titles. The odds are still stacked against the Charleroians "going all the way." They should win the Section 5 race without too much trouble, though.

John Moon, football fullback at Donora High in 1955, is now winning a boxing reputation in the U. S. Navy . . . Bert Rechichar, Rostraver product, has been added to the Western All-Stars for the annual Pro Bowl game on the west coast January 13. Bert had a good year with the Baltimore Colts despite a variety of injuries . . . WSTV in Steubenville (Channel 9) has decided to carry major league hockey instead of Big Ten basketball games this season. The first match will be screened Saturday at 2 p. m.

Hamer Gets Paid for Watching Game

Fayette City's Jim Hamer picked up a pay check for watching Sunday's pro league title game between the Giants and Bears. Jim was on hand as an alternate official . . . Speaking of officials, Pittsburgh's Rusty Coles worked no less than three bowl games in 1956: the Sugar Bowl, Oyster Bowl and Gator Bowl . . . Ed Santora, the former Uniontown football star whose family once lived in Monessen. was a member of the post regimental class grid champions at Fort Jackson, S. C. the past season . . . Jeannette High basketballers set a new school scoring record the other night when they swamped Swissvale, 98-78. Dick Hoak, a talented footballer as well, tallied 39 points to establish a new Jayhawk individual mark.

Bill Thomas. formerly of Perryopolis High, played a fine defensive game for Clemson in the Orange Bowl. Colorado won, 27-21, but it wasn't Thomas' fault . . . Gil Shoaf and Tommy Marchando, former Brownsville High footballers, have joined the wrestling squad at Wabash College.

Washington's Gordon Looks Like Best

While the "experts" can't agree on the best basketball team in the WPIAL this season, practically all of them are quick to concur that James (Beanie) Gordon, of Washington, is the most poished player. Gordon, you will recall, appeared in last year's Ozark Basketball Tournament at the Monessen High gym. He was seriously considered in the voting for the tournament's most valuable player even though he competed in the senior division which included outstanding college stars . . . Reportedly Brownsville school officials are exploring a jointure plan which will include West Brownsville, Jefferson, Luzerne and Redstone townships. That would boost school enrollment to more than 2,000.

ROUGHOUSE FULLMER TAKES CROWN

SMU, Houston and Dartmouth in Big Cage Wins

By UNITED PRESS

Southern Methodist, Houston, and Dartmouth—three conference champions in 1956 — served notice with impressive victories today that they're going to be mighty hard to stop in the 1957 basketball wars, too.

SMU, fresh from a title triumph in the Southwest Conference preseason tournament, officially opened the defense of its league crown Wednesday with a 79-64 romp over Baylor after building up a 24-point lead in the first half.

Houston opened the defense of its Missouri Valley Conference title with a clutch 74-72 victory over Drake, and Dartmouth, the Ivy League champion, went outside its loop to prove its class by downing Connecticut's Orange Bowl tournament champions. 70-67, in overtime.

SMU Cops 11th Victory

Bobby Mills scored 19 points and Jim Krebs 18 to lead SMU, the nation's No. 4 team in the United Press ratings, to its 11th victory in 12 starts.

At Des Moines, Iowa. Houston sank 49 per cent of its shots in downing Drake. It was the first Missouri Valley Conference game for Drake since 1951 when the school withdrew from the league over the slugging of football star Johnny Bright in a league game.

Dartmouth. shooting with accuracy from the outside to thwart Connecticut's zone defense, led the Orange Bowl winners all the way until the Uconns spurted for a 56-56 tie at the end of regular time. But the Indians grabbed a quick six-point lead in the extra session to clinch Ron Judson led Dartmouth with 27 points.

Canisius Whips Detroit

In other leading games Wednesday night: Canisius. ranked No. 13 nationally, scored its ninth win in 10 games, 80-70, over Detroit; Villanova snapped a three-game losing streak with a 71-67 win over Muhlenberg as Jim Fahey had 19 points and 22 rebounds; Vanderbilt, the nation's No. 11 team, scored its seventh straight victory, 80-65, over William & Mary as Hobby Gibbs led the way with 21 points;

Alabama trounced Mississippi College. 86-53; Washington of St Louis trimmed Valparaiso, 77-62, Boston University drubbed Northeastern, 87-55, and in first-round games in the Senior Bowl at Montgomery, Ala., Morehead of Kentucky beat Florida St., 97-75 and Spring Hill beat Furman, 67-56.

Morrow Named As Top Sportsman

NEW YORK (UP)—Bobby Morrow of San Benito Tex., winner of three gold medals in the 1956 Olympic Games, has been named "sportsman of the year" by Sports Illustrated Magazine. Morrow. who won the 100 and 200 meter sprints and ran the anchor leg on the American 400 - meter relay team, was singled out for his sportsmanship as well as his ability.

Big Ten Considers New Grid Code

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — The Pacific Coast Conference, beaten nine times out of 10 in the Rose Bowl by the potent Big Ten, meets here today to devise a new code that will make it easier to give financial aid to athletes.

The two-day session will be attended by the nine university presidents, chancellors and faculty representatives.

CHS Has Best Record On Eve of Sec. 5 Race

Charleroi High's ambituous Cougars will go into the 1957 Section 5 basketball race with the best exhibition record.

On the eve of the WPIAL campaign, the Cougars have an 8-1 slate. Their only loss was at Uniontown in overtime, 68-67.

Thus it's no wonder that the experts have tabbed Coach Henry Pennline's boys as the odds-on favorites to cop top honors this season.

The Charleroians will sit out opening night which will send Brownsville to Monessen. Bellmar to California and Monongahela to Donora.

Charleroi will get its first taste of league play next Tuesday, traveling to Monongahela.

Defending champion Monessen will carry a 5-4 exhibition slate into section play. However the Hounds have compiled that mark against the WPIAL's finest.

Brownies Good

Monessen's opening night foe — Brownsville — is the only other Section 5 team with a winning exhibition record. The fast-moving Brownies have won six of nine starts to date.

Other valley teams had rough times during their exhibition grinds. California, for example, won just one game in seven tries.

Both Donora and Monongahela captured two exhibition wins. The Dragons absorbed four losses while Monongahela took five beatings.

Bellmar finished the pre-season campaign with a respectable 3-3 slate.

If those records mean anything, the Section 5 battle shapes up as a three team race. Charleroi looks like the best with Monessen and Brownsville the challengers.

In tomorrow's games, Monessen, Bellmar and Donora loom as slight favorites.

Rostraver Opens

Over in Secuon 10, three games are on tap. Rostraver will open at home to Dunbar. Other tussles will show Derry Twp. at Scottdale and Hurst at Ramsay.

The Section 17 race also gets underway tomorrow. West Newton will play host to South Huntingdon, Irwin will welcome Perryoplis and East Huntingdon will lay out the mat for Sewickley.

The Junior WPIAL race will not begin until next week. However an exhibition is scheduled today and another tomorrow.

This afternoon Rostraver will play host to California while Vernon will welcome Elizabeth tomorrow.

Boxing Writers Postpone Fete

CHICAGO, (UP) — The fourth annual ring dinner of the Chicago Boxing Writers and Broadcasters' Assn. has been postponed until sometime in February. The dinner originally was scheduled for Sunday, Jan. 6. Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson and his manager Gus d'Amato will be honored guests.

Monessen Fifth Still Firmly Atop Valley Standings

Monessen Fifth Avenue was still firmly atop the Mon Valley Ladies League bowling standings today.

As a matter of fact, the city girls now hold a seven game lead which looms bigger with each passing week.

Tomorrow the locals will go to Connellsville for a "neutral" match with Bentleyville.

Last week, Monessen won two of three games from Monongahels. Helen Skeloski rolled 173-468 to pace the locals while Helen Koch had a 167-384 for the losers.

In other matches, Donora blanked Vestaburg. Charleroi won two of three from Bentleyville and Fredericktown captured a pair from Connellsville.

Top scorers were Peg Johnston (Donors) 193-470; Rachael Jenkin, (Vestaburg) 141-368; Mary Fefolt, (Bentleyville) 149-389; Doris Fisher (Charleroi) 148-374; Mary Yan-Mary Mansell (Fredericktown) 204-493.

Standings show Monessen, 43-8; Donora, 36-15; Uniontown, 36-15, Monongahela 29-22; Fredericktown, 28-23; Charleroi, 26-25; Bentleyville, 23-28; Connellsville, 22-29; Belle Vernon 17-34; and Scottdale, 17-34.

Charleroi Trips North Catholic By 66-63 Score

Charleroi High's tired Cougars had to work hard to post a 66-63 basketball win at North Catholic last night. It was the Cougars eighth success in nine starts.

Actually the game was not quite as close as the score indicates. The Charleroians led by as much as 16 points in the second period and they were still nine points in front with just 30 seconds to play.

Thus the outcome was never in any real doubt. But the pint-sized North Catholic boys never quit.

Matt Szykowney, 6-1 center who was the only Trojan starter to measure more than six feet, tossed in 21 points to pace the home team. For Charleroi Bob Boda was high with 18.

The Cougars brilliant Ollie Payne sat out most of the game but finished with 15 points just the same.

Charleroi, oddly enough, won by hitting on 22 of 30 fouls. North Catholic made 11 of 17.

Both teams were amazingly accurate in their field goal attempts. Charleroi clicked on 46 per cent of its shots while NC made 48 per cent.

Lineups follow:

Charleroi 66

Wrestles Title from Aging Sugar Ray in 15 Round Boxing Brawl

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK (UP) — Young Gene Fullmer, the Utah battering ram who won Sugar Ray Robinson's middleweight crown with a murderous close-quarter attack, said today he would grant a return title shot to Ray and his "foul-fight" screaming handlers.

"We'll take the return fight," said Robinson's co-manager, Harold (Killer) Johnson of Chicago: "but first we'll file an official protest Friday against Referee Ruby Goldstein for permitting Fullmer to butt, heel, rabbit-punch and wrestle throughout the bout."

"That's right." said Co-Manager Ernie Braca of New York. "We'll file the protest with the state athletic commission Friday to make sure there's a competent referee in the ring next time. And then Ray will beat that street-fighter."

Floors Robinson

Young Fullmer. who floored Robinson once and wrestled him to the canvas once — breaking the ring ropes, won a lop-sided, unanimous. 15-round decision before a near-capacity crowd of 18,134 fans, who paid $194,645 to witness the age-vs-youth classic. But the bull-shouldered new champion is bound by a return-bout contract to grant Robinson another shot at the title within 90 days.

Physicians who did the six-stitch tatting on Robinson's gashed left brow said the wound would be healed in plenty of time for him to try to win the 160-pound crown for the fourth time, within 90 days. The brow was slightly cut in the fifth round, and opened bloodily in the 14th.

Although Sugar Ray lost his cherished diadem. he was somewhat consoled by a purse of $152,465, resulting from his 47½ per cent of the net gate and $60,000 from TV-radio. Fullmer. who would have fought for nothing to get the title, got exactly nothing from TV-radio, but his 12½ per cent of the net gate came to $21,330 — largest purse of his career.

Uses "Heady" Tactics

Dark-haired Fullmer. 25. of West Jordan, Utah, won the title by a wide margin through the use of headlong but "heady" tactics.

Scaling 157¼ pounds to Robinson's class-limit 160, he became the first Utah-born scrapper to win any world crown by letting Robinson do most of the advancing and leading, and then plunging in with terrific, countering barrages to body and head.

At 35, Robinson's legs no longer were fast enough to take him out of range of the straight-forward rushes. And the Fullmer barrages forced the once-great champion to fall into clinch after clinch, where he was practically "moidered" by left hooks to the body, and short, clubbing over-hand rights to the side of the head.

Roughness reached its peak in the sixth round when they wrestled to the canvas, landing enroute on the lower ring rope and breaking it. The clock was stopped an additional 25 seconds between the sixth and seventh rounds while workmen tried to repair the rope. But it fell down again in the 10th, and a few extra seconds were required to remove it entirely.

Takes Ray's Best

Fullmer, who never was stopped in 40 previous fights, proved himself amazingly rugged by taking the best shots — right on the chin — from the once-great old master, who had knocked out 90 of his previous 146 opponents. Gene not only took them, but he came fighting back.

Sugar Ray's best rounds were the fourth, ninth and 12th. They were the only ones given him by all three ring officials, although he got two of their votes for his gallant finish in the 15th.

The three ring officials favored the Westerner on a rounds basis as follows: Referee Goldstein, 8-5-2; Judge Harold Barnes, 9-6, and Judge Frank Forbes, 10-5. The United Press agreed, 9-6.

Phillies Peddle Outfielder to Miami Marlins

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Outfielder Jim Greengrass was sold today by the Phifadelphia Phillies to the Miami Marlins, their International League farm affiliate. The purchase price was not announced.

Greengrass, a reserve outfielder for the Phils, joined the team in 1955 in the trade which returned Andy Seminick to Philadelphia and sent Smokey Burgess, Stan Palys and Steve Ridzik to Cincinnati.

Greengrass broke in with Cincinnati in 1952, hit 20 homers the [illegible] year and 27 in 1954. He batted in 100 runs in 1953 and 95 in [illegible].

A leg injury hampered Greengrass during his Phillie career. He played in 94 games in 1955 and hit 8 homers while batting at a .242 average.

He was a pinchhitter most of last season and batted .205 with five home runs.

Pirates Name Scout Supervisors

PITTSBURGH (UP) — J. Rex Bowen, veteran of 23 years in organized baseball. has been named chief scouting supervisor of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

General Manager Joe L. Brown said Bowen, 15, succeeds "Hall of Famer" George Sisler who recently was appointed full-time batting coach.

Bowen, a resident of Bridgeton, N.J. entered baseball in 1934 as a second baseman with the Baltimore Orioles, then with the International League He joined the Pittsburgh organization in 1951 when Branch Rickey brought him along from Brooklyn.

Jackets Win in City Cage Loop

Score First Decision of Season At Expense of Cips by 38-28 Score

There are no winless teams left in the City Basketball League today.

Last night the Yellow Jackets scored their first win of the season, topping the Cips, 38-28. In so doing the Jackets moved out of the cellar, shoving the Cips into those lowly confines.

Other tussles found Big Five advancing to third place with an impressive 58-41 verdict over S-L, and the Fuocos AC tripping the Ozarks, 45-43.

Three games are on tap tonight. The front-running Cro-Ams will meet Big Five at 7; the Ozarks will take on East End at 8 and the Fuocos AC will meet the Yellow Jackets at 9.

Rullo Scores 15

Nick Rullo tossed in 15 points to pace the Jackets to their happy win. For the losers, Walt Boord was high with eight.

John Bronson was the key man as Big Five took S-L without trouble. He looped in 18 points. Adam Vlanich had 11 for the losers.

Fuocos capitalized on good foul shooting to trip the Ozarks, 45-43. The winners made 13 of 19 charity attempts while the Ozarks hit on just three of 13.

Top man for the winners was Buzzy Shumchick with 15. Ray Johnson led the Ozarks with 16.

Bisons, Red Wings Share Statistics In Minor League

MONTREAL (UP)— The Buffalo Bisons and Rochester Red Wings shared most of the International League's defensive honors for the 1956 campaign.

The last-place Bisons were officially crowned the team's No. 1 defensive unit and had two individual leaders while the second-place Red Wings had three individual "champions," according to official figures released today by the league.

The Bisons compiled a .978 fielding mark with only 123 errors in 151 games. Buffalo's Louis Ortiz led the second basemen with a .987 figure and the Bisons' Bill Serena topped the third basemen with .962.

The Red Wings' three individual leaders were first-baseman Joe Cunningham, with a 996 mark, shortstop Ed Kasko with .966 and outfielder Tom Burgess with 988

Carl Sawatski of Toronto led the catchers with a .998 average and Jim Owens of Miami led the pitchers with a perfect 1 000 mark.

Miami, which was seventh in the team fielding standings, led in double plays with 166 while Havana led in errors with 185. Two triple plays were turned in by Columbus and one each by Toronto and Montreal.

Chicken Fights Keep Islanders Entertained

By OSCAR FRALEY

SANTURCE, Puerto Rico (UP)—Chicken to most people is something on a dinner menu but to your Puerto Ricans it means frenzied excitement and a chance to gamble.

The islanders would rather make a bet than eat and, while there is plenty of "action" at the horse parks and the gambling casinos, their main passion is in seeing the feathers fly.

Meaning that cock fights, staged legally in all sections of Puerto Rico, are their main dish.

In Santurce, which is the "brooklyn" of San Juan, there are two "galleras" or cockpits. Every weekend, from sunup to sundown, the tiered arenas are jammed with frantically wagering spectators cheering on the feathered fighters.

Almost to Ceiling

One such is the "Canta Gallo," reached through narrow, winding streets, and you can hear the crowing challenger of the combatants long before you reach the large, ramshackle building. Inside is a 25-foot dirt-floored ring encircled by five tiers of wooden benches which rise almost to the sheet iron ceiling.

Bets already are being shouted around the circle as a canvas sling is lowered from the ceiling, much like the microphone at Madison Square Garden, and the two cocks are weighed. They must be within one ounce of each other and they are armed with needle sharp bone spurts taped on over their natural spurs.

As a concession to nobody knows who, steel spurs are illegal here in the only place under the American flag where cockfighting is permitted by law. But the bone spur is just as deadly.

At "Canta Gallo" there is a 12-foot triangular neon light about eight feet over the ring and the low pit wall is upholstered in bright pink leatherette.

But there the civilized aspect ends as the handlers turn loose the two battlers and three pounds of feathered fury, with deadly efficiency, does the slashing job for which it was born and trained.

And, when the two cocks fly at each other, wings fanning the air furiously as they hurl themselves two feet in the air and rake viciously with their spurs, the crowd goes out of its bloodthirsty mind. Odds change constantly as one cock or the other wavers and falters, its life blood dripping into the dirt crusted with the gore of countless generations of its ancestors.

You may not admire the sport, if such it is. But you do have to admire the feathered gladiators. They are born to fight, and most of them die that way. But seldom do they turn "chicken."

Dukes Invade Dayton Tonight, Cincy Tomorrow

By UNITED PRESS

Duquesne University opens a two-stop Ohio swing tonight with a rematch of its Bluegrass Festival game with Dayton.

The Dukes fared badly in the Bluegrass contest, losing 88-45, to the Flyers. But Coach Dudey Moore, who watched Dayton go down, 61-53, to Louisville in the Festival final, may take a page from the Colonels to stop Dayton's 6-8 center, Jim Palmer.

Louisville halted Palmer with a collapsable defense that prevented the Flyers from feeding the big center.

The Dukes move on to the University of Cincinnati court Saturday night.

In action Wednesday night, Creighton University of Omaha, Neb., surged in the last five minutes of play to defeat Gannon College at Erie, 69-61. The Nebraskans broke a 52-all tie and scored eight straight points to take the lead for keeps.

Gannon's Ron Isackson retained high scoring honors for the home squad with 29 points. Bob Gibson notched 21 tallies for the visitors.

McKeever Sets Parlors Record

Mihalich swept over the Rams and Florists took two of three games from the Diethornes in Grand Parlors League bowling last night

Bob McKeever rolled a brilliant 650 series on games of 199-251-200, to set a league record. Unhappily his Diethornes dropped two games anyway.

Other leading scorers were Reggie Szabo, 218-564; Pete Druash, 189-549; Ed Kroskie, 205-541; Sage Salay, 189-522; and Bill Valko, 191-507.

Last night's activity touched off the second half race.

Two Sweeps in Fabric League

Dodgers blanked the Indians and Senators swept over the Giants in Fabric Bowling League action last night.

In another match, the Yankees won a pair from the Pirates.

Scoring leaders were J. Polinchak, 218-519; Spadafore, 223-556; Slebodnik, 158-451; B. Mitchell, 137-339; Smerilli, 170-446; Gondos, 122-342.

League standings show Dodgers, 7-2; Yankees 5-4; Senators, 5-4; Pirates, 4-5; Giants, 4-5; and Indians, 2-7.

Major League Stars Wasting No Time in Signing

By UNITED PRESS

The major leagues' top stars are wasting no time this winter getting their names on the dotted line.

Two more key players were added to the list today when Willie Mays came to terms with the New York Giants for an estimated $35,000 and relief pitcher Hershel Freeman signed with the Cincinnati Redlegs for about $22.500. The Redlegs also revealed the signing of pitcher Russ Meyer.

The list of satisfied players already includes such high-salaried stars as Yogi Berra and Whitey Ford of the New York Yankees, and Don Newcombe and Peewee Reese of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Delighted With Roommate

Mays, who struggled through a rugged season along with the rest of the Giants in 1956, indicated he was not cut and said he was delighted he would be rooming with Jackie Robinson next season. Mays batted .296 and hit 36 homers last season—figures which the Giants consider disappointing inasmuch as they regard him a gate rival to Mickey Mantle.

"Any club Robinson's on has got to be a winner," Mays said. "He's a great ballplayer and he will be as long as he plays."

Big Pay Hike

Freeman won a big pay hike from the Redlegs, who regard him as the National League's top relief pitcher and perhaps their key man in the 1957 pennant race.

Redlegs May Have Formula

Freeman had a 14-5 record and appeared in 64 games last season when the Redlegs finished only two games behind the Dodgers. Another such season plus a little improvement in the starting hurlers could be the formula for the Redlegs' first pennant since 1940.

Meyer, obtained from the Chicago Cubs on Sept. 1, is expected to be an effective spot starter for the Redlets in 1957. He has been asked to submit to a physical atino ateedlRht mex-an legs' off ices e next Tuesday.
the Redlegs in 1957. He has been asked to submit to a physical examination at the Redlegs' offices next Tuesday.

First-baseman Bob Boyd, who hit .311 in 1956, signed with the Baltimore Orioles He indicated a broken elbow, suffered last May in Cleveland, was completely mended.

Berra Will Be Honored Guest

MANCHESTER, N.H., (UP) — Catcher Yogi Berra of the New York Yankees and Manager Birdie Tebbetts of the Cincinnati Redlegs will be the honored guests at the Manchester Union Leader charity fund sports banquet on Jan. 23. Aso included on the honored guest list are pitchers Tom Brewer and Frank Sullivan of the Boston Red Sox and infielder-outfielder Jim Gilliam of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Len Moore, Former State Back, Named Pro Rookie of Year

NEW YORK (UP) — Lenny Moore, former Penn State halfback who led the Baltimore Colts in scoring last season with 54 points, today was named the National Football League's outstanding rookie of 1956 in the annual United Press poll.

The 23-year-old Moore, a native of Reading, Pa., is the second straight Baltimore player to win the rookie poll. Alan (The Horse) Ameche, former Wisconsin All-America who put in his second season with the Colts in 1956, was the 1955 winner.

Moore beat out Preston Carpenter of the Cleveland Browns for rookie of the year honors in voting by 25 sports writers who covered the campaign in the various NFL cities.

Moore received 10 votes. Carpenter, former University of Arkansas halfback who set a Cleveland record in 1956 by carrying the ball 188 times, received six votes.

Huff Third

Sam Huff, a first-year player from West Virginia who won the starting middle guard berth with the champion New York Giants, placed third with four votes.

John Unitas, who came up from sandlot football to set a new Baltimore club record by completing 55.6 percent of his passes, was fifth with three votes.

Clyde Conner, an end from College of the Pacific who made good with the San Francisco Forty-Niners and J. C. Caroline, Chicago Bears halfback, each received one vote.

Moore finished eighth in the league in rushing with 64 yards on 86 attempts. His average of 7.5 yards per rush was the best posted among the pro circuit's top ten ball carriers and was the highest in the history of the Baltimore team.

Nine Touchdowns

Moore, described by Coach Rip Engle of Penn State as "the greatest back I ever coached," scored nine touchdowns to equal the Baltimore season high set by Ameche in 1955. The Reading rookie also caught a touchdown pass and threw one scoring pass.

Moore put on one of the best long-range scoring sprees seen in the league for many years when he made touchdown runs of 56, 70, 72 and 79 yards midway in the campaign.

He also played a leading role in Cleveland's first failure to win a division title in 11 years.

The Browns, struggling to scramble back in the Eastern Division race, scored a 24-7 victory over Green Bay and were tied with the Colts at 7-7 in the fourth quarter at Cleveland last Nov. 11. With Baltimore on its 30, Moore cut through the right side of his line, cut back toward the center and raced 70 yards for the decisive touchdown.

One of Longest

It was one of the longest, if not the longest, scoring runs ever made against Cleveland's alert defensive platoon. Five Cleveland players converged on Moore as he got into the secondary but he got past them and tumbled over the goal line with two Brownies clinging to him.

The defeat left Cleveland with a 2-5 record. If the Browns had won, they would have had a 3-4 mark and might have made things more interesting for the New York Giants.

Wings and Bruins Battle for First

By UNITED PRESS

The National Hockey League race has resolved into a see-saw battle for first place between the Detroit Red Wings and the surprising Boston Bruins.

The Red Wings, who have been swapping places with the Bruins for over a week now, moved back atop the NHL today, thanks to a 2-0 win over the Toronto Maple Leafs

Sophomore Johnny Bucyk and veteran Gordie Howe took care of the scoring and goalie Glenn Hall turned in his second shutout of the season as the Red Wings reached the half-way point of the race with a one-point lead over Boston.

The Montreal Canadiens, who are four points off the pace in third place, have played 36 games, the same number the Bruins have participated in, while Detroit was played one less game.

The New York Rangers and the Maple Leafs are tied for fourth place, 18 points back, while Chicago is last, another nine points farther back.

Top Stars Appear In Golf Tourney

LOS ANGELES (UP)—The pro-celebrities event, prelude to the rich Los Angeles Open, was staged at the Rancho Golf Course today with top stars from the pro golf circuit and stage, screen and television competing.

The $2,500 prize in the 18-hole event attracted such stellar names in the world of golf as National Open champion Dr. Cary Middlecoff; Masters and PGA champion Jackie Burke, Tommy Bolt, Gene Littler and many others.

The entertainment field offered Bob Hope, Dean Martin, Buddy Rogers, George Gobel, Mickey Rooney and Howard Keel, to name a few.

The competition for the top money in the $87,500 open starts Friday, with the final 18 holes of the 72-hole event set for Monday.

District Man Wins Horseman Award

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UP)—Delvin Miller, owner of Meadowlands Farms in Washington County, Pa., today was named winner of the first annual horseman award by readers of "Horseman and Fair World."

The Meadow Lands, Pa., harness horse trainer and driver was cited for the most outstanding contribution to trotting in 1956. He owned the top-money winning stallion "Adios" which he later sold to Hanover Shoe Farms for $500,000, a record price for a standardbred horse.

The horsemen's publication will present Miller with a permanent award this spring.

The name Alaska is derived from the Eskimo language and means grant lands.

PGA Appoints 'Czar' to Settle Future Disputes

LOS ANGELES (UP)— The Professional Golfers' Assn., irked with its own inability to cope with errant players, today named a "czar" to arbitrate all disputes and set up a series of rules, regulations and fines to control activities on the rich year-round tour.

More than 100 players, here for the Los Angeles Open starting Friday, sat in on a meeting at which Edwin J. Carter, tournament bureau manager, was given added powers that included the right to bar men from competing in PGA-sponsored tournaments.

"Fines will be levied by our tournament supervisor, Harvey Raynor," says Carter. "If they think the fine is unjust, they may appeal to me. I make the final decision. There is no further appeal."

Carter said that he will have the right to ban a player from competing in PGA tournaments if a player refuses to pay a fine. In the past many fines have been levied, but very few collected.

Civil Defense Unit Making Plans for Training Programs

The Fayette City unit of Civil Defense, under the co-ordinator, Ralph Miller, is continuing to organize and hopes to start training for auxiliary police, first aid and welfare during the early part of this year.

Already 38 men have been signed to serve as auxiliary police, with Police Chief Alvie Usher heading the unit. Thirty-five women have been signed as welfare workers and will be in charge of mass care centers when or if they are necessary.

All of the community's church boards have been contacted and permission has been received to use the churches as care centers. Mrs. Joseph Williams will be in charge and will designate the women to specific positions after their training period.

Forty-two volunteers have signed for first aid. These courses will be under a county instructor and Mrs. Joseph Bell, of Fayette City, a registered nurse.

Philip Karcesky, deputy co-ordinator, has made application to the county unit in Uniontown for the training course for auxiliary police. He expressed the hope that this group would begin their training shortly.

The list of men to be approved after signing their loyalty pledge includes:

Week of Prayer To Begin Here Tuesday Evening

The Fayette City Community Week of Prayer will begin on Tuesday evening with the churches in the downtown section uniting for services that will run for four nights, meeting each night in a different church with a different speaker.

The Ministerial Association president, the Rev. Harry W. Beveridge, has announced that the first meeting will be held at the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints at 7:30 on Tuesday. The subject for the service is the "Church and the Lord, Jesus Christ."

On Wednesday evening the union service will be in the Presbyterian Church, and the subject is "Christ and the Church." Thursday, Church of Christ and subject, "Christ and the family" and on Friday evening in the Methodist Church the subject will be "Christ and Business."

Each church pastor will either speak in his own pulpit or be responsible for a guest speaker. Members of the Association in addition to Rev. Beveridge are the Rev. K. Earl Daniel, John Bowers and Arthur Warner.

Ladies Guild Meets Tuesday

Mrs. Helen Bolchak, retiring president of the Ladies Guild and Christian Mothers of St. Edward's Catholic Church, will meet with her executive board tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in the social rooms of the church.

Plans will be made for the regular monthly meeting of the society, scheduled for Tuesday evening, Jan. 8, at 8 o'clock. The newly elected officers will be installed at the Tuesday meeting and it will be at that time that Ruth McGinsky will accept the duties of president from Mrs. Bolchak.

Railroads Ask Boost

WASHINGTON (UP) —Seventeen Eastern railroads asked the Interstate Commerce Commission Wednesday for a 5 per cent increase in passenger fares effective Jan. 9 to meet operating deficits.

The boost would apply on basic one-way or multiple trips on coach and first-class rides. Commutation rates would not be affected.

The 17 railroads said their combined passenger deficits totaled $67.3 million in 1955.

The ICC last Monday granted a 5 per cent emergency hike in passenger rates to eight Eastern and all Western railroads and a 7 per cent nationwide boost in pullman rates.

The pullman and Western increases became effective Tuesday. The Eastern railroad boost goes into effect Jan. 9.

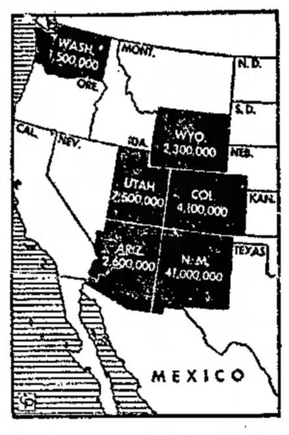
The 17 railroads filing the new application included the Baltimore & Ohio the Delaware & Hudson, the Delaware & Lackawanna, the Central of New Jersey, the New York, Chicago & St. Louis, and the Erie railroads.

Other railroads that applied for the boost were: The Bessemer and Lake Erie; the Ann Arbor, the Chicago South Shore and South Bend; the Detroit and Mackinac; the Grand Trunk Western; the Mackinac Transportation Co.; the Monon; the New Jersey & New York; the New York & Long Branch, and the Virginian.

The increase also would apply on the Wabash Railroad east of Chicago and Danville, Ill.

Horses in Comeback

CHICAGO (UP) — Horse drawn vehicles are making a comeback in Chicago, City Collector William T. Prendergast said licenses issued to horse cars in 1956 climbed from 72 to 73.



URANIUM STATES — Here is where the nation's uranium ore reserves lie, according to the Atomic Energy commission which reported 3,840,000 tons were produced in the past 18 months. Twelve uranium mills are in operation in the U. S., and contracts have been let for eight more.

Hoxsey Medical Change

PORTAGE, Pa. (UP)—Dr. Newton C. Allen resigned Wednesday as medical director of the Hoxsey Cancer Clinic here.

The resignation was announced by John J. Haluska, former state senator, who is administrator of the clinic. No reason was given.

Allen has been medical director of the clinic since it opened in 1954. He came to this Cambria County town from the community of Eightyfour, Washington County.

Haluska said Allen and the clinic "severed relations on a friendly basis."

"We felt it would be to the best interests of the clinic and its patients. Dr. Allen has agreed to cooperate with the clinic if his services ever are needed again," Haluska said. He did not elaborate.

Haluska said Dr. Harold F. Galbraith, who came from Philadelphia to join the clinic staff, will step up temporarily as chief of staff. Dr. Galbraith's wife, who Haluska said also is a physician, will join the clinic staff.

Haluska said two other physicians, one from Philadelphia and the other from Harrisburg, will visit the clinic next week to discuss joining the staff.

The controversial clinic was refused a license as an in-patient hospital by the state Health Department last month.

The refusal came after a federal jury at Pittsburgh decided the government had the right to destroy a half million pills seized at the clinic on grounds they were worthless in the treatment of cancer. The clinic has appealed the verdict.

Prospects for Issues Facing 85th Congress

WASHINGTON (UP)—Prospects for action on major issues facing the 85th Congress:

"Eisenhower Doctrine" — Congress almost certainly will grant the President's request for advance authority to use American troops, if necessary, to block possible Soviet aggression in Middle East.

Schools—The President will push hard for big federal outlays to help communities build public schools. A similar bill failed in the last Congress when an anti-segregaton amendment was added.

Negro rights — House passage again seems assured for the administration's four - point civil rights program. But it faces a threatened filibuster by Southerners in the Senate.

Farm—Congress is almost certain to approve an administration plea for relaxed planting controls on corn farmers to avert threatened collapse of their price support program.

Foreign aid—Funds sought by Mr. Eisenhower probably will be cut sharply. Some lawmakers contend that Congress is more likely to cut funds below the $3.7 billion granted last year than to boost the outlay to the $4.4 billion administration will seek.

"Tight money"—This issue will break out on several legislative fronts. The administration probably will touch off bitter fight by asking that interest rates on government-guaranteed mortgages on new "GI" housing be raised to 5 per cent from present 4.5.

Immigration—Legislation to keep U.S. doors open temporarily for Hungarians and other refugees from Communist countries has good chance.

Postal rates—Renewed plea for higher rates to eliminate Post Office deficit faces uncertain future.

Taxes—The average person can't expect any relief. Democratic leaders and administration will oppose general tax relief for fear it would create budget deficit and increase inflationary pressures.

Brownie Troop In Doll Party Meeting Here

Girls of Brownie Troop 26 had their dolls as guests at their last meeting held in the Girl Scout Little House in the form of a doll party. Dolls of all types were displayed during the afternoon.

Each girl told something of interest concerning her doll.

Games were then played and the prize winner was Nancy Strahosky.

There were two guests present along with the troop members, Sandy Pupilli and Rosemary Costa. Each brought her doll.

The meeting was concluded with the friendship circle led by Maureen Woods.

Mrs. Olga Miller, leader, was in charge assisted by her co-leader, Mrs. Melba Woods.

When the troop meets on Saturday afternoon at 12:30 at the Little House regular activities will be resumed after special Christmas season festivities.

Girl Scouts in Reunion Held In Greensburg

The Senior and Intermediate Girl Scouts of Fairhope, who attended Camp Wesco last summer were invited to attend a reunion of the campers during the holiday season in Greensburg.

Senior Scouts Evelyn Perun and Joyce Barron along with Louise Waite, Phyllis Superfisky and Judy Paholski from Intermediate Girl Scout Troop 44 attended. Mrs. Georgina Superfisky provided transportation and the session was in the social rooms of the First Presbyterian Church of Greensburg.

The girls spent some time reminiscing of their summer camping days and then enjoyed games and refreshments.

A representative group of Girl Scouts from throughout the county attended the get-together.

Mr. and Mrs. Ector Pesi and children, Rosemarie and Johnnie, of Wheeling, W. Va., visited over the holidays with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carlo Pesi, of Graham avenue and other relatives in this area.

Belle Vernon Women of the Moose will meet next Tuesday evening in the lodge rooms at a session postponed from Tuesday of this week because of the New Year holiday. The executive session will be at 7 and the lodge session at 7:30.

The Lady Belle Rebekah lodge will convene this evening in the lodge rooms for the regular session.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Valdiserri and children have returned to their home in South Bend, Ind., where the former is employed as secretary to Football Coach Terry Brennan, after visiting here with relatives.

Execution Date Set by Leader

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader has fixed the week of Feb. 25 for the electrocution of Francis X. Ballem, 29, convicted Delaware County torso slayer.

Ballem was convicted of the killing of John Dopirak, 33, a Chester dishwasher, in April, 1954. The victim's dismembered body was found inside a trunk in a Sharon Hill trolley station. Ballem who was found hiding in the attic of his home in Upper Darby Twp., said he shot Dopirak in self defense.

Ballem lost his appeal for a new trial in a plea to the state Supreme Court and the U. S. Supreme Court denied him a hearing.

Vernon Canteen Dance Saturday

The first Vernon Junior High School canteen dance will be held on Saturday evening after a brief holiday season suspension. Dancing will be to recorded music and the affair will be in the form of a "jean hop".

A committee of Bellmarette Band Booster members will be present to act as councilors representing the sponsoring organization. Mrs. James Naccarato is canteen chairman.

Civic Club to Hold Executive Board Meeting

Mrs. Anthony Jedrziewski, president of the Tuesday Evening Civic Club has called a meeting of the executive board members for next Monday evening at 8 o'clock at her home on Fayette road.

Several matters of importance concerning the remainder of the club year will be discussed.

There will be only one meeting of the club in January, the first one having been suspended due to the holiday season. A "mad hatters" program will feature the next session on Jan. 15, and all club members are asked to fashion themselves a hat or to wear one with a story connected with it so that it can be told during the meeting. They are also asked to bring their hats in a bag and display them for the first time during the program.

A social hour will follow the meeting.

Collects Money in Hospital Drive

Andrew Strahosky, a Daily Independent carrier boy in Fairhope, visited his customers during the holiday season and collected the sum of $20.25 for the Children's Hospital in Pittsburgh.

On Monday he sent a check for that amount to the Children's Hospital telethon.

John Gillo, Sr., of Fairhope, is a patient in the Montefiore Hospital, Pittsburgh, where he will undergo surgery within the next few days.

Beverly Glotfelty and Cinda Waite, of Intermediate Girl Scout Troop 56 and Pamela DePaolo, a member of Fairhope Brownie Troop 10 made a collection of funds in Fairhope for the Children's Hospital telethon.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Neil, of Speer street, had as their holiday guests, their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Neil and their daughters, Debbie and Arlene of Arlington, Va.

S-1-C Richard Palfrey has resumed his duties at Newport R. I. after spending a 10 day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Palfrey, of Short street. He also had as a houseguest, Ted Barriclow, who is stationed at the same base.

A holiday season guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Palfrey, of Short street was Miss Janet Roberts, of the Scotland School for Veterans' Orphans.

The next meeting of the members of the Mimirian Literary Club has been planned for Tuesday evening, Jan. 8, and it will be held at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. George E. Fee, of Fayette street. There will be a program after a dessert luncheon and social time.

Ruth Ann Bentz, who has been a patient in the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital, has returned to her home in Belle Vernon R. D.

The Loyal Women's Class of the First Christian Church will meet this evening in the social rooms of the church. The meeting was postponed from Tuesday due to New Year's.

Gladiolus Society In Convention At Pittsburgh

Thomas Dobson, president of the Pennsylvania Gladiolus Society, has announced that the society will be host to the North American Gladiolus Society on Jan. 23 24, 25 and 26, at the Roosevelt Hotel in Pittsburgh.

Mr. Dobson, a resident of Belle Vernon, will extend the welcome to members from all over the United States and Canada. Last year's convention was held in Sioux City, Iowa, and was attended by Mr. Dobson and several other area members of the state organization.

Mrs. Marcellus Kunkelman, of Speers, is secretary of the society and Mr. Kunkelman is in charge of arranging the program for the guests.

There will be business sessions, special speakers and social events arranged for the guests and many gladiola growers have already made their reservations for a four day stay in Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Maude Springer, of State street, was a recent Pittsburgh caller.

Woman's Club in Change of Program

A change in program has been announced for the Jan. 8 meeting of the Belle Vernon Woman's Club, which will be held at 2 p. m. in the First Presbyterian Church.

Instead of a book review there will be a panel discussion on Books. It will be titled "Young America Looks at Books" and the panelists will be students from Bellmar High School.

Mrs. Charles M. Steele, librarian at Bellmar High School, will act as moderator for the presentation.

Girl Scout Troop Resumes Meetings

Intermedite Girl Scout Troop 44 of Fairhope will resume regular meetings this evening at 6 o'clock in the basement of the Marion Presbyterian Church.

All girls are asked to bring their handbooks and notebocks so that work on merit badges can be resumed.

This troop suspended all activity during the holiday season.

Fresh Vegetables Available Now All Year Around

Although cold winds may be blowing, and there may even be snow, we can almost believe it is June or midsummer when we visit one of the large markets. The vegetable displays are so tempting that they are irresistible.

Edith Barber

No vegetable is more attractive in appearance than fresh broccoli, now coming from the Far West, as do many of the other fresh vegetables. As convenient as we find the frozen products, most of us are ready to do a little preparation of vegetables when time allows.

It is rather fun to shell peas for a change,and sometimes someone else can be persuaded to assist, especially if he or she is invited to taste some of those fresh peas dressed in cream. It does not take very long to French green beans. Young carrots hardly need to be scraped, and can be shredded or sliced, if you like. New potatoes are often cooked in their jackets, or they may be scraped. Baking potatoes need only be scrubbed.

New cabbage is favored by some even over the more regal broccoli. The latter should be washed in running water. To preserve its color, I like to cook it in boiling water to cover. After draining, we may use a hollandaise or a sour cream sauce, or pieces may be bundled, wrapped in bacon and put under a broiler for a few minutes. The cabbage should be shredded, and cooked in a small amount of water before draining and dressing with cream.

BACON - BUNDLED BROCCOLI

1 bunch broccoli
6 slices bacon
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Wash and trim broccoli. Cook, covered, in a small amount of boiling salted water until tender, about 10 to 15 minutes. Drain. Partially fry bacon and drain on absorbent paper. Split broccoli spears lengthwise to make 6 servings. Wrap each spear in strip of bacon. Place on ovenproof platter or pan and sprinkle with cheese. Place in boiler for 3 to 4 minutes or until cheese is browned. Yield: 6 servings.

SOUR CREAM SAUCE

2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
¾ cup sour cream
2 teaspoons tarragon vinegar
½ teaspoon paprika

Mix slightly beaten egg yolks with sour cream, vinegar, and paprika in small saucepan. Hold saucepan over a larger one containing hot — but not boiling — water and stir constantly until mixture thickens and becomes smooth. Remove from heat and season with salt, if desired. Serve at once with poached or steamed fish, asparagus, broccoli or cauliflower. Yield: About 1 cup sauce.

TOASTED CHEESE

1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon paprika
½ pound cheese
2 eggs
1 cup milk

Mix seasonings in greased 9-inch piepan. Grate cheese into pan. Break eggs over cheese, add milk, and mix with fork. Set in pan of hot water, and bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) until set, about 35 to 40 minutes. Yield: 6 servings.

Leftover Turkey Provides Base For Many Meals

Folks have no trouble in using up leftover turkey. It is often more of a problem to protect the remains of the Christmas dinner from icebox raids. There seems to be nothing more popular than make-your-own cold turkey sandwiches.

If one is lucky enough to have any on hand after Christmas has come and gone to scrape the bones and chop any larger pieces that have survived for the always popular turkey hash or a baked mousse for which not so much of the meat itself is needed.

If there are enough turkey slices, plan to serve club sandwiches as a supper dish. While there is no doubt the original recipe for these calls for toast, and three slices of it for each sandwich, some prefer buttered fresh bread. Two slices may be white and one may be brown for a three-decker style sandwich. As a filling, combine the sliced turkey, lettuce, mayonnaise and crisp bacon with sliced tomatoes in addition.

YOUR FOOD PROBLEM

By Edith M. Barber

WITH THE VAST ARRAY OF FRESH VEGETABLES now available, homemakers will welcome the opportunity to serve them in slightly fancier fashion: dressed in cream, topped with hollandaise, or bacon-bundled and broiled.

Pickup Meals Are Popular

Every hospitable household should be ready to serve a pickup meal for those who come for tea or cocktails and have such a good time they just stay on. One need not have enough on hand to offer supper to a large group, but to take care of half a dozen or so.

One of the products to keep on hand is dried beef, which has an almost indefinite shelf life when packed in glass jars. The saltiness and flavor make it appetizing and, when the slices are shredded and sauteed in butter before the flour is stirred in and the milk added, it is a generally popular supper dish. Creamed frizzled beef can and should be delicious.

A good-sized wedge of American Cheddar is also convenient to have on hand. Everybody likes a souffe or any other baked cheese dish, some of which are easier and quicker to prepare than a souffle. If time allows, potatoes can be baked or toast can be made at the last moment to serve with either the frizzled beef or the hot cheese dish.

With a tossed green salad, and plenty of coffee, everyone will be happy. Canned fruit will often be called upon for dessert and an original touch may be added by the use of sherry, rum or Angostura bitters. Flaked coconut is also a good addition to almost any canned fruit.

½ pound sliced dried beef
4 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1-8 teaspoon pepper
2 cups milk

Tear beef in pieces. Melt butter in skillet, add beef and saute until light brown. Sprinkle flour and pepper over beef and blend well. Add milk slowly, stirring constantly, and cook over low heat until mixture thickens and boils. Serve in hot dish or on toast or hot biscuits. Yield: 6 servings.

Nutritional Meals Are Easy To Plan Today

The nutritionists and the home economists have been trying for some time to make it easier for housekeepers to plan satisfying meals for their families. During the day, all essentials for good nutrition should be furnished.

A few years ago, a plan with seven divisions was originated. To celebrate the coming year, this has been simplified so there are only four groups to consider, plus the usual extras needed to provide enough calories.

Group 1 is the milk group, particularly important for the calcium it furnishes. It calls for two or more cups for adults, with a larger amount for children. In addition to calcium, the milk group contains generous amounts of protein and riboflavin, one of the B vitamins.

Group 2, known as the meat group, covers meat, poultry, fish, and eggs plus dried beans and peas and nuts. Extra protein comes from milk, bread and cereals.

Group 3, vegetables and fruits, contributes vitamins and minerals in liberal quantities if a variety is used.

Group 4, covering bread and cereals, supplies many nutrients but is especially counted upon for energy.

There are other foods such as butter, margarine and other fats and sugar and syrups that not only supply energy but are valued particularly for the flavor they add to our meals. As we have all discovered, food must appeal to the palate if it is to be eaten.

VEAL STEW. WITH. BISCUITS

2 pounds neck of veal, cut in pieces
1 medium onion, sliced
1-8 teaspoon thyme
1 ½ teaspoons salt
6 medium potatoes, diced
6 medium carrots, diced
3 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons cold water
Baking powder biscuits

Just cover veal with water. Add onion, thyme and salt, cover and simmer about 2 hours until tender. Add vegetables and cook ½ hour longer. Mix flour and cold water, and stir into mixture. Cook over low heat until slightly thickened. Add more salt, if needed, and serve with split hot biscuits. Yield: 6 servings.

VEGETABLES AU GRATEN

Allow 2 cups diced cooked vegetables to 1 cup medium cream sauce. Combine drained vegetables with sauce, add more seasoning if needed, and chopped parsley to taste. Place in greased shallow casserole and sprinkle with buttered crumbs. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 10 to 15 minutes. Grated cheese may be mixed with the crumbs, if desired.

Winner, Still Champion

NEW YORK (UP)—Two of the hardiest perennials won and placed as the best dressed women of 1956 today and a relatively new addition, the American princess of Monaco, showed.

Mrs. William S. Paley, who has been prominent on the list for 11 of the past 16 years, topped for the fourth consecutive year the list of best dressed women compiled by the New York Dress Institute.

Mrs. Paley, wife of the chairman of the board of Columbia Broadcasting System, is the former Barbara Cushing of Boston.

Miss Grace Kelly of Philadelphia and Hollywood tied with Mrs. paley for first place last year. Miss Kelly, now Princess of Monaco, was nosed out for second place this year by another American bride of royalty, the Duchess of Windsor, who first appeared on a best dressed list in 1935 as "Mrs. Ernest Simpson, often seen with the Prince of Wales." The princess was third.

Three other actresses were on the list which included 14 names—12 places instead of the usual 10—and two ties.

Others on the list:

Mrs. Winston Guest, the former Lucy Cochrane of Boston, fourth.

Hollywood's Marlene Dietrich and Audrey Hepburn tied for fifth.

Mrs. William Randolph Hearst Jr. of New York, sixth.

Countess Consuelo Crespi, of Rome, the former Consuelo O'Connor of New York, seventh.

Rosalind Russell, of Hollywood, eighth.

Princess Margaret and her aunt, the Duchess of Kent tied for ninth.

Madrid's Countess of Quintanilla, the former Mary Elaine Griffith, of Rockland County, N. Y., tenth.

Mrs. Henry Ford II, of Detroit and New York, eleventh.

Countess Mona Von Bismarck, of Paris and Capri, twelfth. It is the first time she has been listed since 1949.

Last on the list this year, she was on most best dressed lists from 1933 to 1949 as Mrs. Harrison Williams of New York. After the death of her husband, she went into retirement and did not return to society until recently.

Lake Central Airlines Has New Service

ERIE, Pa. (UP)— Lake Central Airlines initiated new service between Columbus, Ohio, and Erie New Year's Day.

Mayor Arthur Gardner extended an official welcome as the first regularly scheduled flight touched down at Erie Airport shortly before 1 p.m.

Airlines officials estimated the new flights will carry more than 7,000 passengers between the Pennsylvania and Ohio cities during the first year of operations.

'BEST DRESSED' — Ranked No. 1 in the New York Dress Institute's annual list of Best Dressed Women is Mrs. William Paley (above), wife of the CBS president. She lives in Manhasset, N. Y., has four children, is in her late thirties. The 1956 list included 14 names.

Defends Housewife in Cold Cream, Curlers

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UP)—Hubby complains about her. Cartoonists poke fun at her. But Florence E. Wall defends the housewife who runs around in cold cream and curlers.

Miss Wall said this woman is doing herself and those who have to look at her a favor — she's working at the young look.

Miss Wall, a cosmetics chemist for 30-plus years, has no patience with the woman who "lets herself go around the house, and then heads for the beauty shop when she wants to make a killing."

"That's expecting a miracle", said the sprightly Miss Wall, whose beauty credo is based on prevention. She recently became the first woman to receive the Society of Cosmetic Chemists' annual medal for contributions to the field.

Career In Cosmetics

Florence Wall, a graduate of St. Elizabeth College, Morristown, N. J., and New York University, has spent most of her scientific career in cosmetics. She helped to pioneer development of modern hair dyes; organized NYU's first accredited courses related to cosmetics; has taught cosmetology at NYU and other schools, and written six textbooks in the field.

She believes a woman should start preventive care of her skin in her 20's—"certainly not later than the 30's," she said.

"Neglect the skin and the figure when you're young. . .and pay the price later," she said, in an interview. "I believe in the retaining rather than restoring idea."

Gives Beauty Prescription

Her beauty prescription — the combination of cosmetics and facial massage. And, with regularity. "It is like the concert pianist who said that when he neglected practice one day, he could notice the difference in his playing," she said. "Two days, and the critics noticed. Three days, and the public noticed."

"The woman who uses cosmetics has a better skin than the one who doesn't," said Miss Wall. "Even in casual application, there is some massage benefit."

She makes no recommendations for specific brands of creams and foundations — "none of them is harmful," she said. But she divided them into three major types: Cleanser, which she said should not penetrate but "flush out" soil; emollients, "which are the rejuvenators"; and the finishers, now usually liquid.

Skin beauty also depends on diet, rest, and general health, she said. Miss Wall practices what she preaches — most of the time. "Sometimes I neglect massage," she confessed. "But daily cleaning is automatic.

"I'm comfortably past middle age," she added. "And for me, I don't think I look bad."

Report Better Record on Surplus Farm Supplies

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government reported today more than 60 per cent of federal-owned farm commodities disposed of since 1953 brought cash on the barrelhead.

The Agriculture Department said in a year-end review of surplus disposal operations that the percentage of these dollar sales has gone up recently.

For the first quarter of fiscal 1957 (July through Sept. 30), dollar sales rose to 71 per cent of the total distribution. For the July, 1953-September, 1956 period, the dollar sales percentage was 61.

In addition to sales for cash, large volumes of surplus commodities moved out of the Commodity Credit Corp inventory through special programs. These disposals were by sales for foreign currencies, barter, transfers to other agencies, and donations.

State Taking Long Look at Its School Program for '57

(The Pennsylvania Department of Public Instruction provides the leadership and regulations under which schools operate throughout the state. In the following dispatch for United Press, the department superintendent, Dr. Charles Boehm, tells what Pennsylvania is doing to keep the state abreast of developments in the field of education.)

By DR. CHARLES H. BOEHM

The Pennsylvania Department of Public Instruction spent the better part of 1956 in taking a long and careful look at itself in regard to the leadership and educational services it must give to all the schools of the Commonwealth.

The year was one of planning and preparation to deal with the educational problems that are and will be harrassing the teachers and school administrators throughout the state. The question constantly before the deputies and administrative officers has been: What services to the children of Pennsylvania are most essential and how can the department most effectively provide them?

We feel that some of the corollaries to this question are in the process of being answered. One of the most pressing problems facing the Commonwealth is the building of enough schools to take care of the growing enrollments. Last March the Legislature approved a ceiling of $925 million for reimbursable school building expenditures.

To meet the requests of school districts for permission to build and to relieve a pressing backlog of building applications, the department created a new office—the Bureau of School Buildings. This bureau is not only expediting the erection of new school structures, but it has also undertaken a program to give on-the-spot assistance to local school districts in planning future schools, selecting sites, and doing research into the eventual costs. To carry out this program, the bureau has engaged consultants with wide school building experience to serve local districts as needed.

In an effort to solve problems that needed solving in a hurry, the department has made extensive use of part-time consultants, especially in the fields of special instruction and curriculum development. Consultants in the teaching of reading, the problems of handicapped and exceptional children, the development of interest in science, vocational education, safe driving techniques, and general education have been sent out to schools where their services are called for.

The executive offices of the department came under close scrutiny with the result that they are now reorganized to operate more effectively and economically. An office of management methods is applying the principles of effective organization to regroup the functions of the department. A data-processing service using the latest electronic business machine is saving the Commonwealth $42,000 a year. The personnel office is conducting a campaign of "positive hiring" to bring to the department only fully qualified and thoroughly trained educators and administrators. The department's obligation to keep the people of Pennsylvania informed of its activities is being answered by an office of public information.

But these are only short steps toward the goal of expanded services to the schools; the year 1957 should see long strides. The problem of sound curriculum development in all schools is a major one and one that is receiving considerable attention by educators and laymen alike. Early in the new year an entirely new area of instructional services will be opened within the department. Bureaus of curriculum development, field supervisory services, and curriculum administration are soon to be formed to guide local educators in the development of sound, basic courses of study based on programs of agricultural, industrial, and business education; general and college preparatory education; and health and physical education.

A state curriculum commission will soon be set up to keep the department informed of what curriculum planners throughout the state are doing and the guidance they need.

An important function of public education is the teaching of typical children—that is, children who are handicapped, retarded, or exceptional and who need special attention. The Bureau of Special Pupil Services, although already established, will increase its activities of bringing to schools the most recent developments and techniques in educating these children. During 1956, new legislation supported by Governor Leader brought special help to 52,000 handicapped.

In short, the Department of Public Instruction in 1956 had a revaluation and a modified reorganization, and this, we feel, is typical of educational thinking throughout the United States.

Merger Is Approved

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Stockholders have approved the merger of Oliver Iron & Steel Corp. into Oliver Tyrone Corp. effective Dec. 31, 1956, it was revealed today.

Asks for Allegheny County Confirmation

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov George M. Leader has asked the state Senate to confirm his appointment of Adolph Schoenbrun, 2789 Beechwood Blvd., Pittsburgh, as a member of the Allegheny County Board of Assistance.

Schoenbrun, a Democrat, would serve until Dec. 31, 1959, succeeding Thomas M. Watt, McKeesport, who resigned.

What Are the Chances For Multiple Birth

By H.N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

What are your chances of giving birth to twins or triplets?

Statistics say that twins occur once in every 87 births Triplets are born one in every 10,000.

But that doesn't tell the whole story. Age, race and parity apparently play an important part in determining your particular chances of having more than one child at a time.

Older women seem to have a better chance for giving birth to twins than do younger girls In the 35 to 39 age bracket the twinning incidence is about 17 for for every 1,000 births

For women under 20 it is only 6 per 1,000 births A few years back, a 12-year-old Kentucky girl gave birth to twins.

Multiple births occur more often among negroes than any other race

Women who already have had children seem to have a better chance of giving birth to twins, triplets or four of a kind than does a woman who has been previously childless

Once a set of twins has been born, it sometimes sets a pattern for that mother's future births At least two women each had two sets of twins last year.

In February a Rochester New York, mother gave birth to her second pair of twins in ten months The following May, a Jeffersonville Indiana woman had her second set in eleven months

While taking a little more time a Quebec mother has really set a mark to shoot at She had had six sets of twins in eight years!

There have been several cases in which twins have been born several weeks and even months apart

The heaviest set of twins born in this country, as far as I know is a combined weight of 22 pounds These twins were born in Louisville, Illinois in 1941

The world's record was set by English twins whose birth weight totaled 35½ pounds One weighed 17½ pounds, the other 18 pounds

The greatest number of babies ever delivered at one time is six Although there have been several cases of sextuplets, none has lived more than 24 hours.

Stanley's Girl Friend to Lose Job in March

NEW YORK (UP)—Carol Burnett, who got her first big break playing Buddy Hackett's girl friend in "Stanley," will lose her new job in March when the show folds

But she's already zeroing in on new territory—she's working up a nightclub act and is scheduled for a spot on the Ed Sullivan show this Sunday as a comedienne-singer

"Actually, I can't help feel anything but gratitude toward the 'Stanley' show," said Carol today, "you know, it's the reverse of the sort of part I usually play—I do slobs and sloppy characters and this has given me a chance to do a different kind of thing

"Another thing is the tremendous experience you get in playing a 'live' show — particularly with someone like Buddy Hackett. He doesn't like to be pinned down by the script, so I have to listen to the sense of what he's saying instead of just waiting for cues

"Whatever the critics have said about this show, I think there's one big thing to its credit—we're attempting live situation comedy on TV, something no one else is even trying this season."

Carol a brunette from San Antonio who was raised in Los Angeles, set out for New York when a benefactor handed her a $1000 check after watching her do a singing bit at a party.

MONESSEN HIGH GRADUATE WINS CONTEST — Bernard Manetta, 25, (right) son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Manetta, of 1126 Reservoir avenue, won $1,000 in the 1956 Blockson and Company Design Contest for upholstered furniture. A stylist with the Ford Motor Co. in Detroit, Mich., Manetta won the award for designing an interlocking cast aluminum chair and sofa. He lives with his wife and daughter in Detroit. Robert B. Jones, also with the Ford Co., shows Manetta his prize-winning sketch that netted him a $500 prize.

New Steel Production Records Are Predicted

NEW YORK (UP) — America's steel industry—feeling the impact of the Suez crisis—will set a new production record of 120 million tons in 1957, Iron Age said today.

The authoritative trade publication said the new mark, 5 million tons greater than in 1956 and 3 million tons above record 1955, will be a result of these main effects of Suez: All out construction of oil tankers; record oil drilling; higher defense spending and stepped up foreign aid.

Iron Age said 1957 will see not only strong demand to keep production lines rolling but also a battle to rebuild inventories against the possibility of a real international explosion.

"Hedging against coming higher steel prices will add some pressure," Iron Age said, "but not so much as in previous years."

The publication said steel mills enter the new year with "very few carryovers in most major products." The situation is "particularly embarassing" in plates, structural shapes, seamless pipe, linepipe, and hot-rolled sheets. It noted the supply problem is "worsening rapidly."

Iron Age polled nine steel-using industries and found each expects 1957 will be better than 1956.

Automotive: A "good bet" is 7.0 million cars and more than 1 million trucks will be produced, making it the second best year in history;

Machine Tools: 1957 may top $1 billion by a higher margin than 1956, which set a new peacetime record for both orders and shipments;

Construction: 1957 is limited only by the availability of materials. Housing is the only question mark;

Appliances: Concensus is a 10 per cent gain;

Farm Equipment: Farmers are "in a buying mood" with the outlook for a five per cent gain;

Oil: The Suez crisis could push spending higher than the record $6.3 billion expected;

Aircraft: Manufacturers look for an $8.5 billion year, against $8.3 billion last year;

Coal: Stepped up domestic and export demand means consumption of 461 million tons this year, against 448 million tons in 1956;

Capital Equipment: Spending for new plants and equipment will approximate $73 billion or about $2 billion higher than last year's record $35 billion.

Newsprint Cost Takes $4 Leap

NEW YORK (UP) — Dow-Jones & Co., Inc. said today in a Toronto dispatch that Abitibi Power & Paper Co. Ltd. has notified its customers of a general increase of $4 a ton in newsprint prices, effective March 1.

According to the dispatch, Abitibi officials stated that the increase came "only after long and careful consideration" as a result of steadily rising costs in mill and woods operations and higher freight rates. The company said the increases would only partially offset increased costs.

The action would bring the basic New York price of Abitibi's newsprint to around $134 a ton.

Below Normal Temperatures For January

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Weather Bureau forecasts below normal temperatures for most of the eastern half of the nation this month and near normal temperatures elsewhere.

The bureau Wednesday forecast the northeast section of the country would have the "greatest departures" from normal temperatures.

Rain and snow are expected to exceed normal east of the Appalachian Mountains, with "considerable snow" from Virginia northward. Central and southern parts of the West Coast also are expected to have above-normal precipitation.

Below normal amounts are expected in the northern plains, Great Lakes region and far southwest. Elsewhere near-normal amounts are expected.
